PRINCESS HERE SEEKS STAGE CAREER

RUSSIAN ROYALTY

Princess Irene Chagadaeff-Saxansky, daughter of Russian noble killed by Bolsheviists. Her mother is shown in the inset.

Out of the maelstrom of Bolshevist Russia two Princesses of the royal line have come to Boston to forget the horrible memories of the events which resulted in the overthrow of the Romanoffs and the establishment of the Soviet Commune.

They are: Princess Irene Chagadaeff-Saxansky, daughter of Prince Saxansky, who was killed by the Bolsheviists at the time of the revolution. She is only sixteen years old and is here in quest of a stage career.

The older Princess, her mother, is a graduate of the Warsaw Conservatory of Music and expects to earn a livelihood giving piano lessons.

They are without means and are staying at the home of friends in Haverhill. They moved to Moscow after the revolution, managed to escape last November, and came to this country in December.

WARREN BANK'S OFFICIALS ARE SUMMONED

Springfield, Feb. 28.—Four Warren men have been summoned to appear as witnesses in Boston tomorrow in the investigation by the Federal Grand Jury of the looting of the First National Bank of Warren of $2,3.000, for complicity in which Frank L. Taylor, former president, and Abraham Goldman are under arrest in Chicago and Joseph R. Marcino is being sought.

The men summoned are Dr. John E. Dalton, first vice-president of the bank since its organization in 1920; Harry S. Reed and William J. Bell, directors, and Sidney D. Gilligan, who was cashier at the time the Goldman-Marcino interests took control.

U. S. ZEPPELIN WILL FLY TO CHICAGO

Berne, Feb. 28.—The American Zeppelin now under construction at Friedrichshafen will be the latest word in aircraft of its kind. Trials will begin in May and include a trip across the Alps. The dirigible will be taken to Berlin in June to be inspected by the American Ambassador. Its flight to America is not expected before Autumn, when it is hoped the Zeppelin can fly at least to Chicago without a stop.

BURY PHYSICIAN WHO GAVE LIFE TO POOR

New York, Feb. 28. (By International News Service.)—In a little flat on the sixth story of a tenement building in the heart of New York's East Side, this afternoon, funeral services were held for Dr. Ferdinand Segar, friend of "The submerged tenth." A noted physician, decorated by the Czar and recognized by his fellow doctors as in the front ranks of his profession, Dr. Segar lived in poverty and died almost a pauper after devoting his life and his for tune to the poor.

MARANGI JURY AT SCENE

Jurymen Visit House Where North End Beauty Is Alleged to Have Slain Kinsman

The jury deciding the fate of Theresa Marangi and Ignatzio Carluccio, dubbed by court officers "the most attractive couple ever tried for murder in Massachusetts" today visited No. 42 Lynde street, where Leo Marangi, brother-in-law of the accused, was shot to death early one morning last Fall.

The jurors were shown the splintered door which Attorney William R. Scharton, counsel for the defence, asserts was shattered by Marangi in an attempt to enter. It was this, the defence avers, that led to the shooting.

Attorney Scharton objected to remarks by Judge Quinn in defining the obligations of citizens to serve as jurymen and made this objection the basis of an appeal for a change of venire, which was refused.

ACCUSED "DIP" IS GIVEN ONE YEAR

Charged with stealing $9 from the pocket of Angelo Riccione, while the latter was in an East Boston theatre, Jack Rubin of Chestnut street, Chelsea, was found guilty in East Boston Court today and sentenced to one year in the House of Correction. He appealed.

By HAROLD R. HALL.

Farmington, Me., Feb. 28.—One of the most important women witnesses in the murder trial here of Mrs. Ethel H. Bean, has disappeared.

She is married and has been missing ever since summonses were issued by the State for witnesses.

She is an important link in the State's chain of evidence, on which it hopes to convict Mrs. Bean of the murder of her husband, Otis A. Bean, who was shot down on the night of October 6 last at Haines Landing in the Rangeleys.

The fact that the woman has disappeared was disclosed today by Attorney-General Ransford W. Shaw, who is handling the prosecution of the case with County Attorney C. C. Holman.

VERY PRETTY WOMAN.

Attorney-General Shaw declared the woman is one of two women who were "mixed up with" Bean, the stelwart guide.

The Attorney-General hinted that the woman wanted is a Summer resident, or at least a person who spends some time fishing in this region for several weeks each year. "Won't you say whether or not she is a Summer resident?" asked the reporter.

"I don't think I will," answered the Attorney-General. "She is a decidedly pretty woman, and if we can't locate her there is no reason why we should disclose her identity, for it would only cause a break in her family that could never be repaired.

"The woman dropped out of sight at the time we issued a summons for her. We knew where she was when the summons was issued, but when we went to serve it she was gone. We have been searching for her ever since, and are still searching, but have found no trace of her."

REVEALS "MYSTERY WOMAN."

"Just what part does she play in the case?" asked the reporter.

"She is one of two women we claim were mixed up with Bean," replied the Attorney-General.

Here the Attorney-General revealed that Miss Elsie Stewart, a pretty Summer waitress at the Pleasant Island Camp, where Bean formerly worked, is the famous "mystery woman," whose identity has been kept a secret.

"This woman who has disappeared and Miss Stewart, the State claims, were the real causes of jealousy, which we shall attempt to prove brought about the murder of Bean."

ICE TRAPS 3 SHIP; HELP CALLED

Americans Among Passengers in Peril; Short of Both Food and Water

Halifax, N. S., Feb. 28.—The French steamer Pro Patria, with several American passengers on board, has sent out an S. O. S.

The Pro Patria for the past four days, the radiogram states, has been jammed in an ice field, 70 miles south of St. Pierre.

Her condition is desperate, with three propeller blades smashed, rudder disabled and other damages.

The passengers and crew have no fresh water on hand and the supply of fuel is almost exhausted.

The Canadian ice-breaker Stanley has gone to the assistance of the Pro Patria with water, food and fuel.

The Pro Patria is a coasting vessel running between St. Pierre and Halifax. Twenty-five years ago she ran between St. Pierre and Boston.

The ship was built in 1895. She is 78.5 feet in length and has a gross tonnage of 849 tons.

There is no estimate of the number of persons aboard.

Police Believe Drug Store Robberies Were Made by Thieves Seeking Dope

A string of nine early morning breaks and one attempted break in Jamaica Plain and Roxbury by a band of thieves evidently seeking dope, judging by the way they ransacked drugstores they entered, was followed a few hours later today by arrest of three youths in South Boston as suspicious characters.

The three suspects were locked up at Athens street, South Boston station at first, then were sent to Dudley street police station for examination.

GET LOOT WORTH $60.

The thieves entered three drug stores, two markets, a fruit store, a bakery, a lunch room, and a chain grocery store, and tried to get into a third market, but were frightened away.

They secured about $60 in cash and cigars, cigarettes, candy and fruit.

Three breaks were in the Eliot square district, two in Egleston square, one about half-way between the two squares and the remaining visits were on upper Washington street, near Dudley street, all within a range of one and one-half miles.

Automobile tire tracks were noted in front of some of the places, giving theory that the thieves may have used a machine.

Richmond's drug store at No. 3160 Washington street, Egleston square, was entered by prying off a rear window grating and breaking a glass door panel. The thieves got $4.50.

They ransacked the store in a way

THIEVES SEEK DRUGS.

The other break in that neighborhood was at Edward Sawyer's drug store, No. 3125 Washington street. Here the thieves made another search for narcotics.

In Elliot square thieves entered W. A. Onthank's drug store, No. 59 Highland street. Postage stamp money was taken and a search made for drugs.

In the Onthank store the two padlocks off a Highland Cash Market, ... to Highland street. They tried to pry open the safe with a cleaver, but failed. Then they took about $5 from the till and a few oranges.

At No. 88 Highland street, corner of Cedar street, they raided Charles Shargagian's fruit store and secured cigars, cigarettes, candy and $2.

At the Quality Bakery shop, No. 427 Centre street, Jamaica Plain, the thieves got about $4.

At the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company's store, No. 2686 Washington street, entrance was gained through a transom. Nothing was taken from this store.

In the Square Public Market, at No. 2699 Washington street, corner of Dudley street, was entered by breaking a glass, then jimmying the door. The cash register yielded 12 cents.

The lunchroom of Philip Cohen, No. 2465 Washington street, was entered by jimmying the door.

Three young men, supposed to be the thieves, were busy at the front of a market, No. 2588 Washington street, when frightened away.

...al for treatment. House doctors rushed in and overpowered Bruggink, who was strapped to his cot to prevent any more outbreaks.

Bruggink is twenty-eight years old and drives for the A. J. Sweet family of Tupelo road in the aristocratic shore district of Swampscott.

Captain Eugene P. Brogan of the Swampscott police received a telephone call that a man was running around the Sweet premises, crazed from liquor and threatening violence.

Patrolmen Rosche, Hadley and Kehoe went out and returned with Bruggink, who was booked for intoxication and then sent over to Lynn Hospital, where a stomach pump was used.

Bruggink's wife was called to the hospital as her husband was in serious condition. She remained there a while, then left.

Captain Brogan sent Pat olman Alfred Simpson over to the hospital to guard Bruggink and ordered Patrolmen Rosche, Hadley and Kehoe to return.

When Chief William L. Quinn, the new head of the Swampscott force, heard that Captain Brogan had detailed Patrolman Simpson to the hospital as a guard for Bruggink, he ordered Simpson recalled, as the story was told today.

This left the patient without a police guard. Not long after that Bruggink leaped from his cot and, when the nurses sought to restrain him made his attack on them, as the police relate it.

GIRL WITNESS MISSING IN BEAN TRIAL

said the Attorney-General. "The Stewart girl will be put on the stand to tell her relations with Bean. We wanted to put the other woman on, also, but we simply can't find her."

CALLED LOTHARIO.

The Attorney-General also revealed that the State claims the murdered guide was a veritable Lothario. That there was not a triangle, but a quadrangle composed of the strapping guide, Miss Elsie Stewart, the camp waitress, the missing witness, and Mrs. Bean, who is charged with the murder of her husband.

The State will claim that it was this quadrangle that brought about the shooting of the guide. That the two "other women" and their relations with the guide fired the spark of jealousy that grew until Mrs. Bean could stand it no more and shot her husband.

Miss Stewart is a young girl of medium height and stylish form. She appeared with the other witnesses in the courtroom wearing the very latest in clothes and holding her head high. A surprise is due, according to the Attorney-General, when the girl takes the stand.

GUIDE FIRST WITNESS.

Robert Martin, a guide who found Bean's body the night of October 6 last, was the first witness today. He said that he left his camp not far from the scene of the murder that evening and started to Welch's store. On the way he hard two shots.

"I went to the Welch house and then took a flashlight and started over to Archie Logdin's to get him on the long distance telephone," he testified.

"On the way over I saw two men in the road near the Toothaker garage. They went on down the road. Then an automobile came along with Mr. and Mrs. Welch and Mrs. Bean in it. We saw a light at the garage and when I went to investigate I found Bean lying on the ground dead."

FOOTPRINTS IN THE MUD.

Martin revealed the fact that he saw the footprints of a man's shoe in the soft mud near the dead man's body. He stated that they looked as though the shoe had hobnails in it. This point was stressed in cross examination by Attorney W. F. Pattangall.

Asked as to the relations of Bean and his wife Martin again brought the courtroom into laughter when he replied: "Oh, they got along together just like any ordinary man and wife."

"That may mean much," spoke up Associate Justice of the Supreme Court Dunn, ho is hearing the case.

H. L. Welch, former New England League baseball player, was the next witness. He outlined his activities during the day and night of the murder. He said that while he was in his house near the Landing he heard Bean outside talking.

Q.—What did Bean say? A.—"Going over?"

Q.—Any response? A.—Yes, a woman's voice answered. But I could not recognize the voice or understand what she said.

Q.—What else? A.—Bean said "Yep. Going over right away."

Q.—What next? A.—I heard shots fired.

FINDING THE BODY.

Welch stated that he went outside to look around and when he came back Martin was in the house. Martin, he said, then left to go to Lodkins house.

"I got out of my car then and Mrs. Bean came over and she and myself and my wife got in the car to start for Oquossoc for the mail. When we got to the Oquossoc road we saw a flashlight waving. We stopped and found Bob Martin there."

Martin said: 'Do you see a light at the garage down there, and I said go down and find out what it is.' Then Mrs. Bean said: 'Oh, that must be Otis. I must get out and go down.'

"Martin came back and said there was a dead man down there. I went down and identified the man as Bean."

Welch then gave the spectators a thrill when he testified that after Mrs. Bean had been told of the death of her husband, he asked her what her relations with her husband were.

"There was nothing between us. Only this morning I sat in his lap and he loved me," he testified Mrs. Bean said.

Other important witnesses ready to testify for the State include Miss Eleanor Percy of Memphis, Tenn., the postmistress who is alleged to have seen Mrs. Bean just before the murder; Herbert Welch and his wife, with whom she was riding toward Oquossoc, past the scene of the murder; Constable Gendron, who was said to have noticed tracks made by a woman's shoes in the vicinity of the garage; Weston A. Toothaker, proprietor of the camps, and his wife.

Other important witnesses to be heard today include P. B. Burns, the fourteen-year-old boy, who saw Bean at about the same time that Miss Percy was alleged to have seen the respondent; Jeremiah Wilson and Norman Mawson, the young woodsmen, who spoke with Bean at Haines Landing when he arrived from the camps with the late afternoon mail. Guide Martin, and B. E. Kimball, and his wife from whose cottage a revolver with which Bean was killed was taken during their absence and while the cottage, it was claimed, was in Mrs. Bean's care.

'VICTIM'S' BODY WAS TORSO OF CALF

Knoxville, Tenn., Feb. 28.—From his cell in the county jail, where he is held on a charge of forgery, Glenn Mayes Knoxville's "Enoch Ardan," today issued a statement explaining that it was the body of a calf which was buried eighteen months ago in a cemetery here after the police and members of his family believed he had been burned to death in a mountain cabin.

Mayes said he removed the head and legs of a calf and placed the torso in the cabin, setting fire to the building and then fleeing.

When the cabin near Mayes mine was burned a year and a half ago the body found in the ruins was identified by physicians as that of a human being. It was learned Mayes had aroused the enmity of mountain moonshiners and threats were said to have been made against his life.

Twelve men were tried for his murder, but all were acquitted. The body found in the cabin was brought to Knoxville and buried with appropriate ceremonies.

Just one week ago, Mayes' "widow" was married to W. L. Gregg of this city.

Mrs. Gregg said today she was an "involuntary bigamist," and that she intended to get a divorce from Mayes, the latter declaring he would "not stand in her way."

I. C. C. REFUSES EMBARGO ON COAL

Washington, Feb. 28.—Conditions governing the supply of anthracite coal do not warrant the laying of an embargo against the export of anthra...ite to Canada, the Interstate Commerce Commission declared today in a report to the Senate.

The commission further reported that investigation into anthracite supplies and methods of distributing had impelled it to refrain from issuing any priority orders governing the movement of anthracite from mines in Pennsylvania to New England or the northeast section of New York State.

TELLS OF ITS WORK.

A general plan for alotting anthracite coal was adopted by producers and national and State fuel distributors last Fall, the commission's report said, when the five months' strike in the producing regions of Pennsylvania ended. That plan has been followed in general ever since, and the commission said it saw no reason for a change, since in six weeks the season of heavy coal consumption will be over.

"No better plan of distribution has been brought to our attention," said the report. "It seems to us that an embargo against the shipment of anthracite coal to Canada, if laid, would effect a substantial departure from that plan.

"We cannot give our approval to an embargo which, if enforced, might benefit certain communities, but which inevitably would deprive other communities of their allotted supply of anthracite coal which, in most cases is but 60 per cent. of the quantity actually needed.

FEARED DISTRESS.

"We cannot overlook the possibility that such embargoes, if approved, might tend to invite appropriation of a full supply of fuel in the State or the community in which it is produced and that the ultimate result might be accentuation of the distress elsewhere."

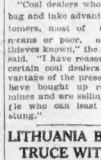
If all shipments from the United States to Canada were stopped during the balance of the year, the commission held, the tonnage of anthracite saved for consumption in the United States would only increase by 2 per cent. the amount now expected to be available for consumption in the United States.

The commission further explained that while withholding priority orders for the Northeast it had taken steps to obtain voluntary cooperation by railroads to expedite transportation. Under this method, the report asserted, the commission had actually been able to bring about preference and priority in coal movement, "without the material changes in plans of railway operation that might arise from the imposition of an inflexible priority order."

Reading Going After Coal Gougers

Indictments against coal gougers in Middlesex County will be returned by the next Grand Jury.

District Attorney Arthur K. Reading made this announcement, basing it on evidence in hand which is "conclusive."



A. K. Reading.

"Not one dealer against whom a complaint is made and proved will be spared. Jail terms, not light fines, will be the sentences asked for," the Middlesex County official declared.

An appeal to all who have been victimized by excessive prices and non-combustible coal is made by the district attorney's office to assist the prosecution. Samples of bad coal, or of slate or brick sold as coal, are requested. It is emphasized that indictments cannot be secured without the actual evidence of the "throw-off" coal.

"Coal dealers who sell coal in the bag and take advantage of their customers, most of them of limited means or poor, are the meanest thieves known," the district attorney said. "I have reason to believe that certain coal dealers have taken advantage of the present situation and have bought up refuse from mines and are selling it to poor people who can least afford to get stung."

New York, Feb. 28.—The American Woolen Company announced today it had sold out and withdrawn all silk fabrics, uniform materials and other fancy goods for Fall delivery because the capacity of the mills had been exhausted.

SPLIT OVER 48-HOUR BILL AT CONCORD, N. H.

Concord, N. H., Feb. 28.—The labor committee of the New Hampshire Senate today presented a divided report on the bill sent up from the House establishing a 48-hour working week for women and children in New Hampshire industries.

Three members of the committee believed such Legislation was "inexpedient," two believed that it "ought to pass." Debate was precipitated by a motion to substitute the report of the minority for that of the majority.

While the bill deals only with women and children, it is claimed that the large number of women employed in New Hampshire textile mills would make the law, should it be enacted, actually operative in the case of all industrial workers. Representatives of the agricultural interests have claimed that work on the farms would also be affected, as "farm hands" would not agree to longer hours of labor than those imposed upon factory workers.

The Senate committee split on party lines in its report.

CHRISTY'S MODEL WEDDED SECRETLY

New London, Feb. 28.—Lucille Day Smith, former model for Howard Chandler Christy, was secretly married, December 18, in Philadelphia, her parents made known today.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Day Smith of Olmstead street, East Hartford, the parents, say that news of the marriage was a great surprise to them. The bridegroom is George Gordon Meade.

Smiling Prosperity
A Lady's Eyebrow
Expensive Unicorn
A Great Star Burning

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

YESTERDAY IN the United States prosperity smiled in all directions, many companies bring in glowing financial reports, railroad companies, oil companies, metal companies. Yesterday for a change, everything was "up" at the same time, stocks, wheat, cotton, copper.

President Harding starts off on Monday for the South to get a rest in warm weather and lose the tail end of his influenza attack. By convention time next year, if all goes well, the tariff works, and the President keeps us out of European muddles, he may find himself running into a boom period, with labor scarce, wages high, profits big, that will disturb any gentlemen trying to get his job away from him.

A LADY tried a new hair dye. It made her bald in spots, and took off her left eyebrow. She sued. The defendant said it was her fault. She had no business interfering with nature.

But the honorable and learned Judge Gaveigan declares that women in business must keep up their appearance to meet competition, and that it is reasonable and right for them to resort to cosmetics.

The Judge might have applied the ruling to married women. They are not exactly in business, but they know something about competition. The lady with the missing eyebrow got two thousand dollars damages.

IT IS learned that Mr. Rockefeller paid something over a million for the tapestries showing "The Hunt for the Unicorn." The old workers that made the tapestries and the unicorn himself, if he were real, would be amazed at the price. But it is not too much, if the tapestries really are among the finest in the world. The Rockefellers will see to it, probably, that their art collections become a part of the nation's education. And this is the time to collect, while we have all the gold.

THE NEWS includes more details of the struggle between France and Germany in the Ruhr. German owners of coal mines give their men two months' vacation with pay. This means that the output of coal will be cut at least three-quarters. It makes the situation hard for the French to meet. The miners won't work while paid for not working.

THE REALLY big news is so far beyond us and above us, so far outside our little corner of space, that we cannot even grasp it.

In the star group called Cetus, a star of the second magnitude has suddenly flamed up and shines more brightly than the great Aldebaran, a star much brighter than our sun.

This indicates, so Paris astronomers say, and Flammarion, from Athens, confirms their opinion, that there has been a gigantic collision in Cetus, and as a result a huge star is actually burning up.

We realize the situation as little as a tumble bug working beside a railroad track realizes the meaning of the locomotive' headlight.

CONFERENCE OF business men, tire-makers, automobile makers and others at Washington will plan a fight against British control of rubber, and for the lower prices.

How would it be at the same time to plan a fight against United States gasoline trust and try to do something about lower gas prices? Remove that mote in our British neighbor's eye by all means, but don't overlook the large beam in our own eye.

PRESIDENT HARDING has given up hope for the ship subsidy. The White House con-

I will quote the two following cases, which are very characteristic, but here I must insert a few remarks in parenthesis. To make you understand the way in which suggestion acts in the treatment of moral taints I will use the following comparison.

Suppose our brain is a plank in which are driven nails which represent the ideas, habits and instincts, which determine our actions. If we find that there exists in a subject a bad idea, a bad habit, a bad instinct—as it were, a bad nail, we take another, which is the good idea, habit or instinct, place it on top of the bad one and give a tap with a hammer—in other words we make a suggestion. The new nail will be driven in perhaps a fraction of an inch, while the old one will come out to the same extent.

At each fresh blow with the hammer, that is to say at each fresh suggestion, the one will be driven in a fraction further and the other will be driven out the same amount, until, after a certain number of blows, the old nail will come out completely and be replaced by the new one. When this substitution has been made, the individual obeys it.

Let us return to our examples. Little M———, a child of eleven living at Troyes, was subject night and day to certain accidents inherent to early infancy. He was also a kleptomaniac, and, of course, untruthful into the bargain. At his mother's request I treated him by suggestion.

After the first visit the accidents ceased by day, but continued at night. Little by little they became less frequent, and finally, a few months afterwards, the child was completely cured. In the same period his thieving propensities lessened, and in six months they had entirely ceased.

ACCUSED OF URGING REVOLT

Leader of German Nationalists Locked Up by Invaders at Essen

Amsterdam, Feb. 28 (By International News Service).—Moroccan troops are continuing their advance in the Ruhr, according to advices reaching here. They have occupied Uckerath and Asbach.

Essen, Feb. 28 (By the Associated Press).—Prince Friedrich Wilhelm von Lippe, German Nationalist agitator, was arrested today by the French authorities, who charge he has been particularly active in stirring up agitation against the Franco-Belgian troops in the Ruhr.

The prince was an active factor in the German campaign for the retention of upper Silesia, and papers found in his room by the French showed, they declare, that he was a member of the secret order of the Swastika and the notorious consul reactionary organization.

The prince came to the Ruhr several days ago on a special mission, urging the Nationalists to a program of violence, the French declare. The Nationalists have been unusually active in the last few days, holding potest meetings, spreading propaganda among the strikers and urging the calling of other strikes.

The Communists, who oppose the presence of any troops in the Ruhr and who before the invasion objected even to the presence of German troops, are holding meetings to combat the efforts of the Nationalists to cause trouble.

It is reported in German sources that Karl Radek, chief of publicity for the Russian Soviet government, has been prohibited by the interallied high commission at Coblenz from entering the occupied area.

Reign of Terror at Bochum Reported

Berlin, Feb. 28 (By International News Service).—A virtual reign of terror exists at Bochum, according to word from there today. The population is said to be in a bitterly resentful mood and a serious outbreak is expected.

It is declared the French are disarming all of the German "green" police in Recklinghausen and Bochum, tearing the clothes from some of the German officers and horsewhipping them.

Trouble has been brewing at Bochum ever since last week, when French fired into a mob, killing one and wounding others. The French have sent reinforcements there.

Probe British Claim to Seized German Marks

Cologne, Feb. 28.—(By the Associated Press.)—An official inquiry is proceeding here to ascertain the legality of the British claim to part of the funds seized here last week. The money and plates are being held under seal until the question is settled between Great Britain and the occupation allies.

Two Trains Wrecked in Occupied Zone

Cologne, Feb. 28 (By International News Service).—Damaged signals today caused the derailment of a train near Coblenz. There were no casualties. The signal man was arrested. Twenty-two persons were reported killed in a train collision at Duren.

MORE U. S. CARDINALS IS REPORT FROM ROME

Rome, Feb. 28 (By International News Service).—A papal consistory was today set for May at which time it is said several Americans will be made cardinals.

Comedian Stone to Give $12,500 to Church Every Year

FRED AND MRS. STONE AND THEIR DAUGHTERS

"Conversion Is Much too Sacred to Be Used as Copy," Says Actor Who Has Dedicated Life to Christ.

New York, Feb. 28.—Lured back to Christianity as he sat idle in a sleeping car stalled by a snowstorm in the Dakotas, Fred Stone, comedian, one of the gayest lights ever to illuminate Broadway, has dedicated the rest of his life to Christ and a tenth of his large income to the church.

His income is estimated at $125,000 annually. Besides it he has large realty holdings, including a twenty-story building here and a large farm and Long Island country house. He and his company are in Seattle.

Though not devoutly religious, Stone always had been regarded as a man devoted to his family, and his reconversion—he was baptized many years ago—didn't surprise the White Light district.

The strangeness of the incident, as reported from Butte, Mont., lies in the manner of its occurrence. Stone, in a telegraphed statement to the New York World, said:

APPEARED IN PULPIT.

"What you read in the Butte Miner is true. I am not looking for publicity. It is a simple and natural thing, much too sacred to be used as copy."

It seems that Stone acted on his resolve by dropping off his train at Billings, Mont., and buying a Bible. After reading it and praying, he was ready, when Butte was reached, to go to Rev. Cecil Clifford, drop on his knees, pray again and take some spiritual advice.

The next day, Sunday, he appeared in the pulpit and told his life's story to an astonished congregation.

TO END OF TRAIL.

"I am now determined to live a Christian life," Mr. Stone is quoted by Rev. Clifford as telling him. "I mean to be true to this decision to the end of the trail."

Mr. Stone had completed only a month before perhaps the happiest seven weeks of his career, when his daughter Dorothy, and his wife, Mrs. Allene Crater Stone, had shared part of the tour.

Dorothy, a lovely agile creature, had had her opportunity to show her talent. She had appeared for seven weeks inside with her father, with whom she will appear as a co-star next year.

Father, mother and child had played together, worked together and shared together the inconveniences of a road company as they had never done before.

FELT THE NEED.

Then Mrs. Stone and her daughter returned to the Stone home in Forest Hills, Long Island, to complete Dorothy's courses in dancing and singing.

After those weeks came blank loneliness. The comedian felt the need of something outside himself, not wholly dependent on time, training and life.

When the train reached Billings Mr. Stone bought a Bible. By the time he reached Butte, Mont., where he was to perform Saturday evening, February 17, he had made his decision.

LED GAY LIFE WITH HUSBAND

Denies in Divorce Court Alleged Incidents With Maurice

London, Feb. 28.—Stru along on a mere 25,000 poun.. (about $125,000 a year), Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Furness lead a "Bohemian and dissipated life," which finally led to financial ruin and the divorce action against the former American woman.

Mrs. Furness, who was once a film actress, was on the stand answering the charges brought by her husband, member of staff of the big shipping interests of Lord Furness.

DRANK WITH HUSBAND.

She denied that she had ever misconducted herself with Maurice Mouvet, famed dancer. She admitted that when she was living in America with Furness, she was addicted to the use of morphine, but she stated that she declined to marry him until she was cured. Following her cure she agreed to the ceremony.

She testified that she has not touched the drug since she was married, but admitted that she had taken more drink than was good for her. She said, however, that her husband drank "fifty-fifty" with her.

She admitted that she drank cocktails three or four times in Maurice's apartment at the Piccadilly Hotel, but swore that she was never alone with him.

She said when they came to England they were received by her husband's family, including his cousin, Lord Furness. She charged that her husband encouraged her to drink.

POISONED BY COCAINE.

Dr. A. D. Child, a Mayfair physician, testified that he treated Mrs. Furness for drunkenness. He found her on one occasion frothing at the mouth when she seemed to have taken an overdose of some drug. He stated he treated her husband for cuts and gashes following attacks she made on him.

Sir James Fergus Stewart, a specialist, told of a visit to Mrs. Furness, May 10, 1921, when he found her steaming and kicking and that it was necessary for several persons to hold her. He said she was suffering from acute cocaine poisoning.

A statement by Sir Stewart was read in which the physician said Mrs. Furness acknowledged drinking brandy to the extent of five bottles daily.

$160,000 GEM THEFTS BELOW "DEADLINE"

New York, Feb. 28.—The "armistice" which has been in effect for many years between New York's police force and jewelry thieves is no more.

The old "deadline" below which any known thief or crook was liable to arrest on sight is no longer respected by the thieving gentry, it was said today when a series of robberies in the wholesale jewelry district, which the police have hitherto kept secret, was revealed.

The disclosure came when a reward of $50,000 for the return of $87,000 worth of stolen gems was offered by Isaac Levinson, a dealer.

Levinson's pocket was picked while he was en route from his store to the Grand Central Station.

When the story of his loss became public it was revealed that earlier in the month another dealer was relieved of $60,000 in gems while boarding an Elevated train and that more than $150,000 in jewels has been stolen within the past six weeks through similar methods by crooks who are finding the Maiden Lane section a happy hunting grounds.

NEW RUSSELL DIVORCE TRIAL STIRS LONDON

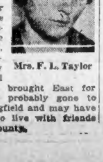
London, Feb. 28.—A rehearing of a divorce action which has stirred English society for more than a year, was scheduled for today. The principals are John Russell, son of Lord and Lady Ampthill, Russell a wife, Christabel, daughter of Colonel John Hart, and a two-year-old child whose legitimacy is being contested by the husband.

On the question of the baby's legitimacy depends its inheritance of the Ampthill baronetcy. The case was originally tried last July, ending in the jury's disagreement over the charges filed against the correspondent then cited.

This time a different correspondent, Edgar Jacquard Mayer, is named by the husband. More than 100 witnesses have been called for the rehearing, which is expected to last at least three weeks.

WIFE OF TAYLOR LEAVES WORCESTER

Worcester, Feb. 28.—Mrs. Frank L. Taylor, wife of the president of the Warren National Bank under arrest in Chicago in connection with the theft of $213,000 of the bank's funds, has left this city where she has been staying since his flight.



Mrs. F. L. Taylor

Mrs. Taylor declined to make known her destination. She stated, however, that she will remain in New England until her husband is brought East for trial. She has probably gone to Boston or Springfield and may have left the hotel to live with friends in Worcester County.

TODAY'S NEWS IN EUROPE

GERMANY

Essen—Prince Friedrich Wilhelm von Lippe, German Nationalist agitator, was arrested by French troops, charged with urging Germans to violent resistance of the allied occupation.

TURKEY

Constantinople—The Angora government has agreed to accept the Lausanne treaty, with exception of financial and economic clauses, according to Turkish newspaper advices from the capital.

GREECE

GREAT BRITAIN

London.—Premier Law denied in the House of Commons that Germany had made proposals to end the deadlock in the Ruhr. It had been reported proposals were made either to Britain or Switzerland.

TURKS AGREE TO TREATY OF LAUSANNE

Constantinople, Feb. 28.—The Angora government has agreed to accept the Lausanne treaty, with the exception of the financial and economic clauses, according to Turkish newspaper advices from Angora.

Earlier advices from Angora had said that although the economic clauses of the treaty provided an obstacle the outlook for a favorable settlement was better today. Many of the officials believe peace is assured.

Ismet Pasha discussed a proposal with the cabinet that the treaty be signed with the stipulation that the economic and financial provisions be reserved for discussion after six months.

Turkish troops encamped opposite the British lines at Ismid are reported to have sent this message to the British. "If you hear firing don't be alarmed as we merely will be celebrating the signing of peace."

London, Feb. 28.—Foreign office has announced that Great Britain would make no reply to the proposal that a six months delay be granted on the Lausanne treaty.

ELTINGE IN COURT ON RUM CHARGE

Seattle, Feb. 28.—Julian Eltinge, noted female impersonator, appeared in court here today to answer to the charge of possessing liquor. He was arraigned with Mrs. Ed Donegan, A. Cognan, L. Nevada and W. O. Parker, who were in his company. Sixteen quarts of liquor carried by the five defendants were seized as they left a boat here. They had just arrived from Vancouver, B. C.

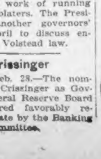
BAND PLAYS DIRGE AT PET MONKEY'S BIER

Baltimore, Feb. 28.—Albert Humphreys, former Chicago showman, whose pet monkey lies buried in a ten-acre plot in the Valley of Ontario, stands cleared today of stealing a manicure set and a baby's go-cart. It was his grief over the monkey's death, at whose funeral he had a circus band play a dirge, that caused Humphreys to drink and to steal useless things for excitement's sake, he told Judge Stanton.

Humphreys had a library of bank books. His lawyer produced them to show Humphreys could have bought anything he wanted.

HARDING LAUDS WOMEN DRY AGENTS

Washington, Feb. 28.—President Harding agreed with Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of the Pennsylvania Governor, that women are adaptable to prohibition enforcement. At the White House it was stated that there are a goodly number of women already in the service of the prohibition bureau as enforcement officers and that they are very efficient in their work of running down dry law violators. The President will call another governors' conference in April to discuss enforcement of the Volstead law.



Mrs. G. Pinchot.

Back Crissinger

Washington, Feb. 28.—The nomination of D. R. Crissinger as Governor of the Federal Reserve Board today was ordered favorably reported to the Senate by the Banking and Currency Committee.

VETERAN COMMUTER RIDES 975,000 MILES

Deacon, N. Y., Feb. 28.—Lewis Ebert of Deacon, who has just rounded out twenty-five years as a commuter between his home and Lower Manhattan, estimates he has traveled 975,000 miles during the period. He believes this is a record. Between his home and his office the distance is about sixty-five miles, so he travels 130 miles a day, or 32,000 miles a year. He spends about five hours daily riding on New York Central trains, subway trains and street cars. He says he enjoys commuting, as it affords rest and relaxation.

Freedom!

Mrs. Nellie McGinn, 609 East 138th St., New York City, writes: "For the last year I had suffered greatly from Kidney and Bladder trouble, distressing pain in the back and hips, with rheumatic twinges at times, constant severe headache, accompanied by nervous chills, and at times also a frequent desire to urinate, a smarting, burning sensation, with pain in the region of the bladder. I would frequently have to arise at night, my sleep being disturbed by the pressure and inflammation in bladder. Reading the use of Balmwort Tablets, I noticed almost instant relief (within 15 minutes) to the third I am now entirely free from pain, backache and distress from which I suffered. I am glad to recommend Balmwort Tablets as a reliable, beneficial medicine.

The foregoing letter describes in detail the distressing symptoms which are overcome by

QUICK RELIEF FROM COSTIVENESS

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards' produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—and tired feeling—dark headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant relief in one (or 2) Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

INFANT DEATHS OUTNUMBER WAR'S TOLL

More deaths from infant mortality occur in this country every year than all the deaths in all the wars in which the country ever engaged, Miss Edna Lawrence Spencer declared to the Legislature in renewing her demand for a State system of maternity benefits.

"Investigations have shown," she said, "that most of these deaths result from poverty. Give the babies and the mothers a chance.

"The State now furnishes treatises and prospectuses on how to care for one's self and the babe in the maternity period, but not a penny to the mother and child who are suffering for the material things of life."

Her bill provides for weekly cash payments not to exceed $13.

Senator Draper of Hopedale asked her if such a law might not cause an influx of prospective mothers to this State.

"If it's a good law the other States will follow suit," she said.

The American Federation of Labor indorsed her demand.

When You Catch Cold Rub on Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and it gets in its good work right away. Often it prevents a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. Just apply Musterole with the fingers. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster without the blister.

Musterole is a clean white ointment made of oil of mustard and other home simples. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the neck and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of all sorts. Seldom fails to deliver results. 35c and 65c, jars and tubes; hospital size, $3.00.

CHICAGO NAMES ITS CANDIDATES FOR OFFICE

By International News Service

Chicago, Feb. 28.—The next Mayor of Chicago will be either Arthur C. Lueder, Republican, or Judge William E. Dever, Democrat. Complete returns compiled today in yesterday's primary election showed that Lueder won by a commanding vote in the four cornered G. O. P. race. Judge Dever had no opposition. William Hale Thompson, incumbent, did not enter the race.

Chicago is normally Democratic although its present Mayor is Republican. The Mayoralty race was an interesting affair. Lueder polled nearly 43 per cent. of the Republican votes. He topped Edward R. Litzinger, his nearest rival, by 54,144. The vote was:

Lueder, 133,704; Litzinger, 74,589; Millard, 61,644; Barnes, 46,690. The total Republican vote was 301,068.

The Democrats gave Judge Dever a complimentary vote of 199,501. The selection of the Socialist Party was William A. Cunnea.

The voters also decided on nominees for city treasurer as the April elections. Alderman John J. Loughlin of the famous first ward repeated his performance for thirty years by winning easily.

The new mayoralty rivals have been active in Chicago civic affairs. Lueder until recently was postmaster of Chicago. He will be forty-seven years old tomorrow. Dever has been judge of the Superior Court since 1910. He is sixty years old.

Mrs. Winifred Mason Huck, elected last November to complete the term of her father, William E. Mason, deceased, as Congressman-at-large from Illinois, was defeated in her effort to retain a seat after next Monday. Mrs. Huck polled 13,744 votes yesterday, running second in a six-cornered race to Mr. Rull.

2 MEN INJURED BY AUTOS IN BACK BAY

Auto accidents in the Back Bay sent two men to the City Hospital with fractured skulls. Hiram L. Barrett, fifty-eight years old, single, of No. 170 Huntington avenue, was struck while crossing West Newton street, near Huntington avenue. George Siegel of No. 256 Massachusetts avenue owned the car. Frank Reiss, fifty-eight years old, of No. 173 Million street, Dorchester, was struck by an auto driven by Robert E. Cunniff of No. 16 Blakerstaff street as he crossed Massachusetts avenue.

CARR CHANGES MIND ON ELEVATED BILL

Charles L. Carr, chairman of the transportation committee of the West Roxbury Citizens' Association, and author of House Bill 1127 which would permit the Elevated to take property at Forest Hills and make 300 people homeless, now says that he was wrong in drawing the bill. At a meeting of the association in the Shaw School he declared that the bill was too wide in scope and that the Elevated should not be authorized to take so much property.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family saver—easily and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for coughs, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in but a few moments. It's cheap, but for results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant—children like it.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for healing the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Aged Couple's $1,000 Savings for Home Found on Street

A pocketbook containing the mortgage on the home of an aged Swampscott couple and $1,000 in currency, the last payment on the mortgage, was found on Lewis street, Lynn, by Ralph W. Johnson, a telephone worker of that city.

Johnson then saw the couple sobbing as they searched. They described the pocketbook to his satisfaction and he turned it over to them.

2 PETTY OFFICERS AND 2 GIRLS FINED

Two Lynn waitresses, Mary Delong and Thereen Jackson, both living at No. 104 Vine street, Lynn, and two petty officers from the U. S. S. Denver, William Gratton and George H. Culver, pleaded guilty in the Chelsea court before Judge Stearns, on a statutory charge. They were fined $10 each. All four were arrested by Revere police who watched them enter a lodging house.

PACKING TRUST IS BROKEN IN NEVADA

By International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 28.—The "trust busting" activities of the Federal Trade Commission were resumed today, when the commission directed the Western Meat Company of San Francisco, a Swift & Co. subsidiary, to divest itself of all stock of the Nevada Packing Company of Reno, Nev., former competitor.

This action was taken by the commission following a decision by the United States Supreme Court in the case of the Aluminum Company of America, "indicating" the commission has power under the Clayton act to require corporations illegally acquiring stock to dispose of such stock in such a manner as to make it impossible to bring about a monopoly.

The Old Man of the Sea

Sinbad the Sailor took him on his back—and then couldn't get rid of him.

National advertising addressed blindly to the map instead of being sent directly to profitable markets is an Old Man of the Sea on the backs of many manufacturers.

Too often it stirs up odds and ends of business that the manufacturer cannot economically follow, but which he is obliged to handle at killing cost in the vain hope of "cashing in" on his advertising expenditure.

It fails to tap intensively the well-defined markets where sales can be pushed in paying volume.

The modern successful national advertiser makes his advertising work at the definite job of looking for desirable business in logical markets.

He knows beforehand what he wants and where to seek it at reasonable cost.

He invariably uses newspaper advertising which covers adequately every market in the land every day in the year.

Advertising As a Factor in Restoring

The Supremacy Of New England

NEW ENGLAND'S LEADERSHIP

CONSIDERABLE thought and discussion have been given of late to the query, "What's the matter with New England?" Far and wide across our broad country New England intelligence and New England capital have spread, and in no small measure have these been responsible for the progress and growth of our country. Conservatism has been dominant in all of our great ventures, and it would now appear as though the time had come when New England conservatism must give way, in some degree, to the march of progress.

On all sides our New England business men are advocating organization and exploitation of New England industries. They want co-operation by the manufacturer and farmer in retaining for New England the supremacy in industry and agriculture which has been hers for these many years past. It is pointed out that we should not lose our leadership in the manufacture of boots and shoes, and why should western apple growers assume control of the eastern market?

Outdoor advertising is a selling force used by all the leading national advertisers and by all advertising agencies who handle national accounts. All honor then to the manufacturers of New England who have had the courage and vision, through national advertising, to enlarge their markets and to insure the permanence of their business.

From BOSTON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OFFICIAL ORGAN, CURRENT AFFAIRS

THE glamour and romance of any big city after dark is epitomized in the flare and glow of thousands of electric lights, those huge illuminated advertisements which pile tier upon tier above the city streets and which seem to hold all the witchery of the night in the magic of their lights. Stand at the corner of Broadway and West 42nd street as the theatre crowds stream along the streets and you realize that illuminated outdoor advertising has transformed the city. Walk along the Boardwalk at Atlantic City when the glow from myriad lights bathes the darkness with a soft radiance. Trek across the Boston Common toward Boylston or Tremont streets after dark. Everywhere it is the same.

Here the aesthetic value of outdoor advertising needs no defence. It spells fairyland and romance, beauty and charm. That it is at the same time a thriving and profitable industry detracts not a whit from this fact. Illuminated advertising softens the ugly lines of drab buildings, converts the commonplace into the beautiful.

In the field of outdoor advertising, however, there is an insidious evil which, if not checked, bids fair to bring down upon itself eventually the odium of the entire community. And that is the unrestricted use of the billboard. No one appreciates this more than the motorist, probably because he is more often confronted with the billboard in all its hideous and grotesque intrusion.

A delightful curve in the road here or a charming vista there—ruined by the presence in the middle of the scene of a huge glaring sign calling attention to the superiorities of this or that brand of soap or smoking tobacco. There is no need of going into an exhaustive invective against this phase of outdoor advertising. It is only too glaringly apparent and he who runs —an automobile—may read.

Against this increasing landscape eyesore is arrayed a public opinion which, unless proper regulatory action is taken by the billboard industry itself, will express itself in what will probably prove to be overdrastic legislation which will seriously cripple, if not wipe out, the business itself.

The leaders in the industry recognize this fact themselves and it is to their credit that they are endeavoring to so restrict the use of billboard advertising that it will not be used in places where its detriment to the eye and the aesthetic appreciation of the surroundings will be absent.

It is to be hoped that such housecleaning from within will obviate the necessity of hostile legislation, as there is no question as to the essential importance of outdoor advertising, properly controlled, and it also can exist in harmony with aesthetics and not in eternal discord with one's sense of art and beauty.

"LIGHT IS MIGHT"

From A Boston Paper Feb. 18, 1923.

ZONITE SIGN AN INNOVATION

Can Be Seen Great Distance at Night

An innovation in electrical advertising recently made its appearance in this city when the largest electric sign in New England was lighted, flashing the message of Zonite from its location on the roof of the Walker building.

No more ideal location could have been found for such a spectacular display than that of the roof of the Walker building, since the message of Zonite can be seen distinctly for a distance of two miles. It adjoins the Colonial Theatre and is situated but one block west of Boston's most important traffic corner, Tremont and Boylston streets. It shows to all automobile traffic entering Boston from the west by way of Beacon street.

Technically, it is interesting to know that the letters forming the word "Zonite" are 26 feet high and the moving message from right to left is a steady running stream of moving letters which measure six feet in height. This sign is not only the largest electric spectacle in New England, but it is the only one equipped with the moving letter device.

Our Illuminated Displays Brighten the Way

AS the gleam of a match attracts, so our numerous illuminated poster and painted displays in the Metropolitan district attract thousands and thousands nightly. The illumination of outdoor advertising displays has been met with favor not only by advertisers, but by the public as well. We are one of the largest users of electric current in our fair city, and surely there must be some spot in the Metropolitan district where we have brightened the way for you night after night, and we hope that our brightening up has attracted you also in a favorable manner.

To Boston Merchants

THE effectiveness of any advertising method or medium depends on three things, and three things only.

1. How strong is the advertisement itself?
2. How many people does it reach?
3. How often does it reach them?

The strength of an advertisement, whether it appears in newspaper, magazine, or outdoors, or any other form, depends on size, color, design, copy and position. It must not be buried or overwhelmed by a mass of competing advertisements in the same medium. Where will you find any medium of advertising that combines all these elements of strength in the same degree as outdoor advertising?

An outdoor advertisement, whether it is a painted bulletin, electric spectacular, or a poster, is in itself the strongest form of advertisement.

The entire population, except the blind, sees outdoor advertising when it is used adequately. Even the child, the illiterate, all understand the pictured idea, and it is the pictured idea in colors in outdoor advertising that puts the message across.

There is a law of frequency in advertising, and it is repetition at frequent intervals that is one of the three essential elements necessary for effective results in advertising. Outdoor advertising has this essential quality of repetition.

Progressive Metropolitan Boston Dealers, believers in Outdoor Advertising, who are using the powerful medium of painted displays to build not only Boston business, but also reputation and confidence in their institutions.

SLAYER OF GIRL OF 6 IS SUSPECTED OF TWO OTHER KILLINGS

VICTIMS SLAIN BY RIPPER

Both Five Years Old and Crimes Resembles Strange Murder in Philadelphia

New York, Feb. 28.Police will prosecute an exhaustive inquiry into the antecedents of Wylie F. Morgan, confessed slayer of six-year-old Lillian Gilmore near Philadelphia Saturday.

Features of resemblance between the killing of the Philadelphia child and the slaying of two New York children in 1915 lead the police to suspect Morgan may know New York cases.

Both children were weeks of each other. years old, and lived East Side. Both were slain in the same brutal fashion, slashed with a heavy knife "ripper" fashion.

The Gilmore child was terribly beaten. Her jaw was broken in five places and her arms, hands and limbs lacerated. Following his attack upon her Morgan has confessed to throwing the body into a frozen pond at Croydon, eighteen miles from Philadelphia. He led the police to the place where they found the body.

CASES ARE THE SAME.

The New York police think that Morgan may be possessed of a mania for the killing of children of tender years. A puzzling feature of the case is that Morgan brought the four-year-old sister of the victims to New York in his automobile and left her near her home. How the young-child escaped him is something the authorities cannot understand.

The close similarity in the ages of the victims leads the New York police to think that Morgan may be the same man who killed the Cohn and Murray children.

B. U. Girl to Wed

MISS ESTHER MacCORMAC.

The engagement of Esther De Vere MacCormac to Arthur L. Jordan, both students of the class of 1922 of the College of Liberal Arts of Boston University, was announced at the initiation banquet of Alpha Gamma Delta, Miss MacCormac's sorority, at the Hotel Victoria. In accordance with the usual custom of sororities, Jordan was obliged to present the sorority with a five-pound box of candy.

WORK URGES P. O. JOBS FREE OF POLITICS

Washington, Feb. 28.—Postmaster-General Work recommended to President Harding today that selection of postmasters no longer be considered a political perquisite of Senators and Representatives, but be vested in the Postoffice Department alone.

At the same time the Postmaster-General, who retires from his present position on March 4 to become Secretary of the Interior, recommended that present regulations requiring examination of candidates for postmaster by the Civil Service Commission, also be abandoned.

"The Postoffice Department is a strictly business organization," said Dr. Work, "and it ought to be aided in putting the right man in the right place, as any private business concern would endeavor to do for its own advancement, and not be handicapped either by political considerations or by the restrictions entailed in the present plan requiring examination by the Civil Service Commission, which does not even give civil service status."

In a statement Dr. Work pointed out that the present rules limits the President's choice in each case to three civil service candidates, none of whom may have had any real business ability, though listed as "good fellows" by their neighbors. He suggested men trained and experienced in really "big business" could be secured for postmasters only by reversing the method of appointment. Instead of having the candidate seek the office he said, the office should seek the man and keep on seeking until it finds the right man, to be retained in office as long as his service is successful.

START DRIVE TO RENOMINATE HARDING

Washington, Feb. 28. (By the Associated Press).—Convinced that half a dozen aspirants already are making cautious overtures to test their strength as Republican presidential possibilities for 1924, some of the friends of President Harding have begun work to assure him a renomination.

The attitude of Mr. Harding himself remains unannounced. There is general agreement among those in the inner circle, however, that a desire for public endorsement will impel him to stand for re-election.

It is upon this presumption, at any rate, that those who want to see him remain in the White House for another four years are proceeding.

DAUGHERTY HAMPERED.

Attorney-General Daugherty, preconvention manager for Mr. Harding in 1920, is expected to again take a hand in urging a renomination. But Daugherty is not expected to be as active as in 1920. His health recently failed him, requiring him to remain in bed several weeks.

Several men long prominent in party affairs have been mentioned as available for the more strenuous work. Charles D. Hilles, a former national chairman, is one of those so considered. Recently Mr. Hilles conferred with the President, and together they visited Mr. Daugherty.

In the background lies the question of who is to manage the Republican campaign after the nomination has been made. The supporters of John T. Adams, the present national chairman, say they expect him to retain that post.

MAY REINSTATE HAYS.

Discussions recently have brought to light, however, an attempt by the friends of Will H. Hays, who managed the 1920 campaign, to reinstate him in the chairmanship.

It is taken for granted that a solid Ohio delegation would be the first requisite to a convention lineup which would insure a renomination.

Later in the Summer, Mr. Harding's friends are predicting, the President will take a speechmaking trip that will carry him to the Pacific coast and will include about twenty addresses. During this trip he will have the opportunity for which he frequently has expressed a desire recently, to "get better acquainted" with the people whose chosen spokesman he is.

DEAN LORD GUEST OF B. U. STUDENTS

A get-together and dinner for the women students who are working for degrees at the Boston University College of Business Administration in the evening division, will be held at the girls' clubrooms, No. 101 Newbury street, this evening. Mary Wilson of Fall River, and Frances M. Landry of West Roxbury.

Dean E. W. Lord

Dean Everett W. Lord will be the speakers and guests of honor. The committee in charge includes Dorothy G. Willard of Roslindale, chairman; Gladys Miller of Beverly; Fannessey Canty of Norwich, Ct.; Gladys M. Manley of Lynn; Mary Wilson of Fall River, and Frances M. Landry of West Roxbury.

SOMERVILLE TO HEAR EXPERT ON ZONING

Campbell Scott of New York will address the members of the Somerville Board of Aldermen tomorrow evening at a special meeting in City Hall on City Planning and Zoning. Invitations have been extended to the various civic associations, the former Mayors of the city and the members of the planning board to be present.

PREMIER LAW LOSES ON AUTO TAX VOTE

London, Feb. 28. (By International News Service).—The Bonar Law government met its first defeat in the House of Commons when a measure sponsored by its ministry to increase the taxeon motor vehicles in order to cover the cost of road maintainance throughout the kingdom, was defeated by a vote of 159 to 88.

Society Girls Hold Sale Today to Aid Sick French Kiddies, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

MRS. L. CARTERET FENNO opens the ballroom of her home at No. 238 Beacon street for a sale in aid of the Home for Tubercular Children at Versailles, France.

The affair, which takes place today from 3 until 5 in the afternoon, has been arranged by a group of May School girls, headed by Mrs. Fenno's daughter, Miss Elizabeth Fenno. There will be cakes, preserves and sweetmeats, as well as fancy articles, to beguile the would-be purchaser. There will also be "grabs" for the youngsters.

SUNNY Italy is the destination of Mr. and Mrs. Galen Stone of Brookline and their debutante daughter, Miss Barbara Stone. The latter looks like a "Latest for Southern Wear" ad in the accompanying picture. As a matter of fact, Miss Stone is seen here as she appeared at a smart charity function some time ago, at which she represented a well-known steamship line.

The Stones sailed last week on board the White Star liner Adriatic, planning to return from their Mediterranean travels about the end of May. Barbara Stone, prominent among the debs elected to the Junior League this year, is a distinct brunette of the olive-complexioned type.

Fellow-passengers of the Stones on board the Adriatic were Mr. and Mrs. Francis Wright Fabyan of Commonwealth avenue.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE BARNARD, whose North Shore home at Ipswich is known as "Riverbend Farm," are soon to sail for abroad. At present they are making their usual Winter sojourn at Palm Beach, where they are stopping at the Breakers. Recently Mr. and Mrs. Barnard gave a luncheon there in honor of Miss Margaret Humes and Captain Byron Tate.

MR. AND MRS. WALTER DENEGRE gave a dinner at their Washington home on Sixteenth street for eighteen guests. The marriage of the Denegres daughter, Miss Elaine Denegre, to William Davies Sohier, Jr., of Boston, was one of the important nuptial events of two Summers ago. The ceremony was solemnized at Manchester-by-the-Sea, where Mr. and Mrs. Denegre have a Summer estate. Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Sohier, Jr., traveled extensively, spending a portion of the following Winter in New Orleans, where they occupied another home of the bride's parents.

VIVACIOUS and petite Mrs. Lynde Cochrane is to be one of the artists at the informal musicale to be given at the Chilton Club next Sunday evening. Mrs. Cochrane played the part of "Polly Peters" in Mrs. Adelaide Whitman's operetta, "Why Not?" last year.

Mrs. Daniel de Menocal and Mrs. John E. Bolt will also sing, assisted by Richard Ames and Madame Dalliere, violinist, with George L. Foote at the piano. A special table d'hote dinner will be served at 7:30, the musicale to begin at nine.

THE Leonard D. Ahls, prominent members of the Boston colony at Palm Beach, are entertaining at their villa, "Nautilus Cottage," Mrs. William Reynolds Innis. Miss Alice Thorndike of Boston has been another house-guest of the Ahls this season.

WORLD COURT PLAN OFF FOR THIS SESSION

Washington, Feb. 28.—Formal consideration of President Harding's proposal for American membership in the international court set up by the League of Nations apparently came to an end today for this session of Congress.

After a conference with the President, Chairman Lodge of the Foreign Relations Committee said it was hardly likely the President would respond before March 4 to the committee's request for further data.

Senator Lodge said the questions asked by the committee were important ones and that before replying the President would consult with Secretary Hughes. He added that the President had told him it was not vital that the proposal be acted on at this session.

CHURCH FARM YIELDS SUPPLY OF WOOD

Raise trees, sell the wood and help to support the church. This is being undertaken by the clergy of the Episcopal Church of St. John the Evangelist on Bowdoin street at their farm located in Foxboro. Rev. C. N. Field and others planted on this farm a number of trees which this year in wood value will yield from $200 to $300. This will make the church independent in its supply of wood as well as help many agencies of the church.

MYSTERY IN DEATH OF SCHOOL HEAD

New Haven, Feb. 28.—Although a telegram has been received here from New York announcing the death in a hospital there of D. Lafayette Flint, principal of a local grade school, friends have not found the body or located the hospital in which he may have been a patient. The message stated only that Flint had died after an operation for a throat affection. Mrs. T. J. Meagher, at whose home Flint lived, received a message Saturday, saying Flint had undergone the operation. Flint came here from Greenfield, Mass., five years ago.

GARMENT STRIKERS ARE BACK AT WORK

A majority of the striking garment workers from Boston shops were back at work today. Of 3,000 men and women who walked out when the strike order was issued, more than 2,000 have returned. The signing of an agreement by the Massachusetts Dress Manufacturers' Association, controlling forty-two large shops, broke the backbone of the strike, it is said. Through the agreement reached, workers will receive a wage increase of 10 per cent. and pay for six legal holidays.

$4,000 Fire in Portland

South Portland, Me., Feb. 28.—Thefire which threatened the storage tanks of the Standard Oil Company in the Ligonia district early today, was confined to the building across the street which was burned with a loss of $4,000. It contained the provision store of A. G. Churchill, a pool room and restaurant.

HARDING SIGNS BRITISH WAR DEBT BILL

Washington, Feb. 28.—President Harding today signed the Smoot-Burton bill under which Congress approved the plan by which Great Britain will pay her $4,600,000,000 war debt to the United States during the next sixty-two years.

The President's signature was the concluding act in the long string of official actions necessary to the settlement of the greatest war debt.

CHURCH TESTS RELIGIOUS LAWS BY SCIENCE

New York, Feb. 28.—Grace Protestant Episcopal Church in Brooklyn, noted for the conservatism of its teachings, has decided to install a "Laboratory of Religious Research."

The purpose of the laboratory will be to demonstrate:

That religion is capable of scientific analysis, precise thought and mathematical definition;

That the teachings of Jesus Christ agree and are parallel with the laws of cause and effect underlying the creation;

That these laws exist and are identical and parallel in the physical, intellectual and spiritual spheres, and that whatever is found in one can be shown to exist in the other two.

That life is a properly balanced, co-ordinated statue of the physical, intellectual and spiritual, and that no constructive program is possible which neglects the correlation.

BIG INDUSTRIAL TRUCE IS PLANNED

Berlin, Feb. 28.—(By International News Service)—Significant feelers looking towards Franco-German Ruhr negotiations have been exchanged in Berlin in the last forty-eight hours.

They have an important American angle for if the proposition broached be realized it would mean France would pays its war debts to England and America with shares of a huge Franco-American industrial trust.

It should be emphasized that according to the best information obtainable these "feelers" were neither inspired nor participated in by German industrialists.

On the contrary, they have remained aloof from all peace negotiations. The German banking world, however, is understood to be actively interested in the pourparlers.

It is declared a prominent Berlin banker discussed the subject with the nephew of a leading French statesman, sent here as an unofficial French spokesman. The plan as outlined is the amalgamation of the Sarre, Lorraine and Ruhr industries. France's part in the proposed trust would be State property. France would then turn over a considerable block of its shares in trust to America and England as payment for her war debts.

There has been one hitch in the negotiations. The French demanded the amalgamation not only cover raw materials and semi-finished products, but insisted finished goods be included. The Germans objected, arguing this would be an uneven deal as German manufacture is much superior to the French. The Germans held the deal should include raw materials and possibly semi-finished products, but should end there.

DIARY OF SCHNEIDER, SLAIN MILLIONAIRE, ACCUSES "SHE"

QUARRELS BROKE UP LOVE NEST

Housekeeper Held in Heavy Bail as Police Question Many Women

New York, Feb. 28. — The slayer of Frederick Schneider, millionaire engineer and contractor, who was found dead in his limousine in the Bronx, may be brought to justice by entries in the victim's pocket diary.

Who is "she?" Investigators are trying to learn. References to "she" are repeated, and are intermingled in the profuse assortment of telephone numbers and initials of winsome young women.

Detectives had been baffled in their search for a known enemy of Schneider, a stalwart man of forty-six years of age, separated from his wife and appearing before the world as the husband of Mrs. Anna Buzzi, with whom he lived for eight years.

TELEPHONE NUMBERS.

The diary telephone numbers, it was suggested, most of them of women residing in the Bronx, may result in several of them being summoned by District Attorney Glennon for questioning.

It was also learned that a young woman stenographer had been questioned by the district attorney. Her name was not disclosed.

Mr. Glennon declared this young woman had been the object of marked attention by Schneider and that Mrs. Buzzi knew of the builder's regard for the stenographer, who is a pretty brunette, small in stature and has brown hair and hazel blue eyes.

MRS. BUZZI HELD.

A few hours before the district attorney's office consented to comment on the diary Mrs. Buzzi had been held in $25,000 bail as a material witness. She denied flatly she had left her apartment at any time on Monday. An excerpt from the Schneider diary, dated January 1, reads:

"She threatened to throw a plate of soup at me and I never heard a female use such vile language before in my life."

Further excerpts were withheld by the district attorney's office pending investigation of important clues. The authorities are asking whether or not jealousy was the motive for the crime.

The notation intimated that the Schneider diary indicated he was tiring of his life in the "love nest" he had established for himself and Mrs. Buzzi. In divorce summons and complaint, it was found that Schneider had been named by Andrew G. Buzzi in an action begun several years ago and which was won by Buzzi.

It was learned independently that Schneider was planning on breaking up his home. It was added he had arranged shortly before the day on which he met his death to have a furniture dealer remove his effects from the "love nest."

"SCENES" REVEALED.

It was said at the district attorney's office that witnesses had testified that Mrs. Buzzi and Schneider had had "scenes" in which the name of at least one other woman was mentioned.

It was confirmed that Schneider was jovially sociable with at least one of the women acquaintances who had business dealings with him. That woman, it was added, was brought home for lunch by Schneider, much to Mrs. Buzzi's discomfiture.

TELLS HOW SHE BEAT DOPE BY 'IRON CURE'

Twelve days ago Mrs. Grace Langdon, a college graduate, appeared before Judge E. P. Rochester at San Antonio, Texas, and asked to be given the "iron cure" to overcome the dope habit. Judge Rochester granted her request. Today she wrote for the International News Service the exclusive story of her twelve days' battle.

By MRS. GRACE LANGDON.

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 28.—When I entered the San Antonio Jail I asked to be kept there until I had mastered my master. I thought my will was strong.

Later I weakened and begged to be released. Thousands of the devils of dope wracked my body and danced in my brain. I paced up and down in my cell and screamed because there was no rest.

That's the beauty of the "iron cure." It is hard. It knows no compromise with desire. It serves as a will when the will is weak and mine was weaker than I knew.

Then have been strange days—these twelve, marked by a peculiar mingling of happiness and hell. There were days when joy was in my heart because of the future. Then there were other days when dope tortured the flesh and the mind and the soul. Death lost its horror then. For two days and two nights—four days after I entered confinement—I lived in hell.

I don't use the word as a figure of speech. I mean exactly what I say because all the imaginings of Dante cannot conceive of greater torture that I endured in that period. Today I am in the midst of the battle, but the worst has passed. I have survived it because I have had to. Iron bars do not bargain. I think I have one more week of confinement. My nerves are steady. Rapidly my brain is clearing. I am gaining weight. My will power is strengthening and I will soon be ready to take my place in the world as a new woman—one who has gone through hour upon hour in hell to cure herself of a dread disease.

MR. GALLAGHER AND MR. SHEAN 'NOT SO GOOD'

Whether Gallagher and Shean are "marvelous," "unique," "cataclysmic," "stupendous" or 'common place," "so so," "just fair" vaudeville comedians is still a subject of hot debate in the New York Supreme Court. The score stands as follows:

GOOD.	NOT SO GOOD
Messrs. Shubert	Gallagher
Their counsel	Shean
Morris Gest	Their counsel
William A. Brady	Will Rogers
Arthur Hammerstein	George W. Lederer

The New York Supreme Court action, originally entitled "J. J. and Lee Shubert against Edward Gallagher and Al Shean for breach of contract," will go down in legal and theatrical history under the title, "How Good Are Gallagher and Shean?"

The whole point of the case is whether or not Gallagher and Shean are actors "unique and extraordinary." If they are the Shuberts will be able to prove damages by virtue of the team having deserted the Shuberts at the inception of Shubert vaudeville last season to go to work for Flo Ziegfeld in the Follies.

The defendants are thus placed in the peculiar position of attempting to prove they are bad actors. If they are bad actors the Shuberts can prove no no damage, and if Justice Delehanty (before whom the case is being heard) can be convinced that they are bad actors, he may decide that the Shuberts are not entitled to legal relief.

"BAD," SAYS WILL ROGERS.

Thus far, as may be seen from the above, opinion seems to be divided. But Judge Delehanty may have to do a King Solomon, for its palpable that the witnesses as to the ability of the singing team are not entirely free from prejudice.

Morris Gest, William A. Brady and Arthur Hammerstein, all of whom have testified that Gallagher and Shean are actors "unique and extraordinary," are more or less affiliated in various theatrical enterprises. On the other hand, Will Rogers, the poet lariat of the Follies, is a fellow worker with Gallagher and Shean in the Follies. Rogers has been most insistent that Gallagher and Shean are bad actors. George W. Lederer has backed him up strongly, and the actors themselves admit they are bad actors.

After the court had requested Will Rogers to take the gum out of his mouth, the cowboy-comedian took the stand.

"It's all in that song," he said, crossing and uncrossing his legs and looking at Mr. Keppler and ex-Judge McCall, impressively. "No, the song isn't much, but it's just one of those things that happen. Tell you the truth, Volstead and Bryan would make just as much of a hit singing that song as Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Shean."

LEDERER'S OPINION.

Even the court joined in the laugh that followed. Then Charles H. Tuttle, attorney for the Shuberts, wanted to know whether Mr. Rogers regarded himself as an actor.

"Me?" replied the comedian as he uncrossed and crossed his legs again. "No. I sing rotten, but Toombes is worse. But we can beat Gallagher and Shean at that."

George W. Lederer, also called for the defendants, said he didn't regard them "much at all" outside of their medium—the skit they appear in.

"Outside of that," he said, "I pay them just as much as I do my chauffeur, no more."

asked.

"How much is that?" he was "Forty dollars a week."

CHURCHES APPEAL to the President to interest him of in "world rehabilitation."

He is as much interested in that already as are the good clergymen. But if you had gone down to the old "Five Points" in New York city, forty years ago, and found everybody fighting everybody else, you would have said more peace and less fighting would be the first thing for the rehabilitation of "Five Points." So with Europe. If the clergymen will pray for Europe to stop fighting they will do the best that can be done. No use dragging us into it.

GLASS 'JEWELS' FROM EGYPT LATEST FAD

By Cosmopolitan News Service.

New York, March 1—Casting aside their diamonds and sapphires, New York society women were today enjoying a new fad—the jingle of 50-cent glass bracelets of Egyptian design and hue.

The Egyptian note has been struck in milady's attire—in dress, shoes and ornament. But it is the ornaments that are most striking.

The Egyptian beaded bracelets are narrow and transparent, come in eight colors, each of which is symbolic. Yellow symbolizes the sunlight, green the east and "great good luck"; turquoise is supposed to ward off the "evil eye." White, as may be guessed, stands for purity, amethyst means constancy, and red ambition, love or passion. While the ancient Egyptians wore the bracelets with religious fervor, it is but a fad on Fifth avenue.

There is one little Fifth avenue shop presided over by a woman who recently visited the Nile country. She brought back a collection of the bracelets and is doing a land office business in them. Somewhat similar bracelets were found in the tomb of Tutankhamen.

There is said to be a beauty hint in the wearing of such bracelets, for they are delicate things, forcing the wearer to slow, rythmical movements of their arms, thus instilling a certain grace. Oriental women long ago been noted for their graceful movements.

Burns Auto Tires for Fuel; Make Hot, Odorless Fire

Milford, Feb. 28.—P. H. Powers, fish dealer, has introduced a new and novel kind of fuel to beat the coal kings. He uses discarded auto tires which he strips in small pieces and puts in the stove in the same manner as with coal. Mr. Powers says there is a tremendous heat and no disagreeable odor. According to him, the heat produced with this fuel beats any other in point of quickness and strength.

COLLEGE BAN ON SYRACUSE JEWS REPUDIATED

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 28.—Chancellor Charles W. Flint of Syracuse University, and other members of the faculty repudiated the action of the senior council, students' governing body, which voted unanimously to discourage the enrollment of Jews at the university. Recently there have been numerous reports of the Ku Klux Klan activity among the university students.

Chancellor Flint said this matter was not in the province of the senior council, and would have no effect upon the university's non-sectarian attitude. Vice Chancellor William P. Graham said the university never had barred Jews and never would.

About 20 per cent. of the enrollment now is Jewish and there are five Jewish fraternities.

THREE WOUNDED IN GUN BATTLE AT TERMINAL

Hoboken, N. J., Feb. 28.—Two alleged members of a "stick up" gang which specializes in robbing dice games, and one of their victims-to-be are prisoners today as the result of a shooting affair in the Lackawanna Terminal, here, in which two thugs and a woman bystander, were wounded.

Four thugs attempted to rob Robert Amrein, of Hoboken, known from coast to coast as "Bobby" Emron, professional crap shooter.

As the four men jumped on him, Amrein whipped out an automatic pistol. Passengers awaiting trains scurried to cover as Amrein continued firing. Two of the bandits were "plugged," but so was an innocent bystander, Mrs. Isobel Barclow, of Philadelphia.

Police clubbed the thugs into submission, but in the excitement two escaped.

MOURNED AS DEAD, ALIVE IN HAWAII

Greenfield, Feb. 28.—Raymond Eugene Smith, who has been mourned as dead by his family for ten years, wrote a letter from the Hawaiian Islands which showed that Raymond is very much alive. He has three children and a wife.

Man's Amazing Message to Rheumatics

After Suffering Intense Agony for Many Years—He Wants to Tell Others.

Dr. Brigadell: I simply had to write and tell you what your wonderful Camphorole has done for me. For many years I suffered the tortures of Rheumatism as only those who have it know. At the same time I had a terrible itch and, covered with sores, the sharp pains were so severe, I could not sleep. Had to get up and rub and scratch. It almost drove me crazy. I tried doctor after doctor and all kinds of medicine I was told to take, which only left me worse. I could not bend my knees. I am a steam-fitter by trade and had to give up my work. Seeing your advertisement in a paper, I thought I would take another chance and told my daughter to get me a package of Camphorole. You can imagine my surprise after using Camphorole, I started to get better right away. After using two jars of Camphorole I am well and happy and have gone back to work. I shall never forget the day I took a chance on Camphorole. After all the years I suffered, it feels good to be well again. Robert W. Teesdale, 2917 High St., Cambridge, Mass.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

USE MULSIFIED

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is very cheap and heats anything else all to pieces. You can get Mulsified at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub the Mulsified cocoanut oil in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fluffy, looks and bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes up every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.

OPEN NOSTRILS! END A COLD OR CATARRH

Get Relief With Ely's Cream Balm When Head Is Stuffed Up

Count fifty. Your cold in head or catarrh disappears. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more snuffling, hawking, mucous discharges, dryness or headache; no struggling for breath at night.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist and apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membranes, giving instant relief. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Your eyes stop stuffed up and miserable. Relief is sure.

CATARRH

of nose or throat is always made more endurable, sometimes greatly benefited, by Vicks vapors. Apply up the nostrils—melt in a spoon and inhale vapors.

IF PHONES DROP TRY THIS RADIO WRINKLE

If your phones are not working as well as when you first bought them, listen to the experience of H. J. Willmott of Allston street, Cambridge.

"A friend of mine had trouble with his phones failing to work. I looked them over and found all the wires O. K. The trouble was that the magnets had become demagnetized by a fall.

"I rubbed the pole pieces of the phone receiver with an ordinary horseshoe magnet. This helped them somewhat.

"Finally I ran them in parallel with my own phones on a one-stage amplifier which I drove pretty hard. After about half an hour of this treatment the phones were as good as new.

"Let me state here that I tried running them from the amplifier without my own phones, and the magnets did not seem to build up; but the improvement was quite marked when I connected my phones across his.

"This wrinkle may help the fellow who does not know what is wrong with his phones when they fail to work after being dropped."

Tonight will mark another epoch in the history of broadcasting when Station WJZ in Newark will broadcast the complete opera "Die Meistersinger," by Richard Wagner, from the Manhattan Opera House. This is the last time this opera will be offered by the Wagnerian Opera Festival. The other 360-meter stations in the New York district have agreed to stand by during the broadcast. It will begin at 7, p. m. and run to 11:30.

INSURANCE TALK TO RETAIL DRUG MEN

The February meeting and dinner of the Boston Associated Run of Retail Druggists was held at Young's Hotel. President C. Fred Wright introduced as speaker of the evening, Arthur E. Gates of the Travelers' Insurance & Travelers' Indemnity Co., who spoke on compensation and insurance. Among those present were Harry C. Wiggin, Walter R. Dolliver and C. H. Perry of the Eastern Drug Company.

ITALY GREETS U. S. COMMERCE DELEGATES

Naples, Feb. 28. (By the Associated Press).—The Neapolitan Chamber of Commerce extended a cordial welcome to the American delegates to the Congress of the International Chamber of Commerce, which opens in Rome on March 18.

At a brilliant reception Julius Barnes, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, expressed great confidence in Italy's future.

Mr. Barnes praised the emigration of Italians to America, asserting that their industry, thrift and honesty "have proved that they can readily understand and adopt the American philosophy of individualism."

After alluding to the failure of Communism and Socialism in Europe, Mr. Barnes congratulated Italy on the encouragement she now gives to private initiative and private enterprise.

The Caronia, which has on board the American delegation, left today for Messina.

Undertaker Buries Kitten

Fairview, N. J., Feb. 28.—Young James C. Farley, Jr., summoned an undertaker when the Farley kitten died. The undertaker arrived with a hearse. James had neglected to tell the family of his plans for the kitten's funeral. Explanations were made and the undertaker buried the cat.

KLAN ELECTS 3 CANDIDATES IN E. ST. LOUIS

East St. Louis, Ill., Feb. 28.—Interest in the local political situation today turned to the municipal election to be held in April after the primary yesterday in which three candidates alleged to have been supported by the Ku Klux Klan were nominated as City Commissioners and two other reputed Klan candidates were defeated.

The Rev. William R. Evans, Ralph Cook and August M. Eggmann were the three victorious candidates who were said to have been indorsed by the Klan. The defeated Klan candidates were M. L. Harris for Mayor and S. F. M. Porter for commissioner.

Interest in the primary was increased by the arrest of three men on charges of distributing political circulars which urged defeat of candidates supported by Catholic organizations.

Urges Americans to Make War on Klan

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Citizens in the South have been forced to defend their homes from the Ku Klux Klan by armed resistance, Bernard Nolan, a New York publisher, asserted at the second session of what has been termed an all-nations anti-Klan rally.

"Americans must unite against Klanism by shooting first and talking afterwards," Mr. Nolan declared.

"We must meet power with power and not with apathy. I do not mean that we should grab our guns and go hunting for Klansmen literally. But we must act, and act quickly together."

STARS TO APPEAR AT PRESS CLUB FROLIC

Speaking of shawls—Ruth St. Denis has one that is worth $1,000. She is going to wear it at the Press Club frolic tomorrow afternoon at the Colonial Theatre. Gail Curci gave this shawl to Miss St. Denis after seeing her perform the Dance of the Alhambra. That is the dance Miss St. Denis and her partner, Ted Shawn, are going to present at the frolic. Others on the bill are Ed Wynn, Venita Gould, impersonator, Jim McWilliams from Keith's, Helen Christian, Helen Borden, Virginia Kellet, Flo Clark, Arline Sanders, Naida Snow and Hilda Burt. In all there will be fourteen acts.

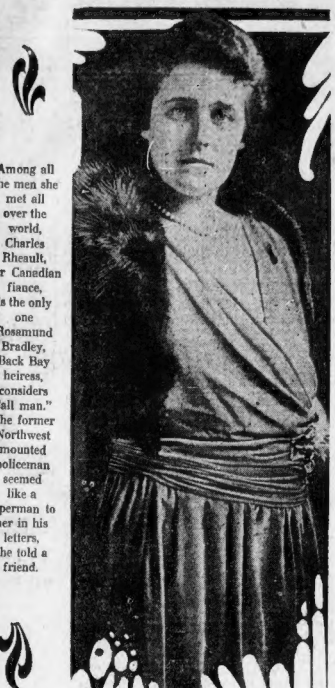
MISS BRADLEY SAYS FIANCE IS 'ALL MAN'



Among all the men she met all over the world, Charles Rheault, her Canadian fiance, is the only one Rosamund Bradley, Back Bay heiress, considers "all man." The former Northwest mounted policeman seemed like a superman to her in his letters, she told a friend.

FIANCE IS HEROIC, SHE DECLARES

"Something Indomitably Courageous About Him," Says Miss Bradley

"Among all the men I have met through my varied experiences in many parts of the world, Charles Rheault is the only one I consider all man!"

This is the way Rosamond Bradley, Commonwealth avenue and Prides' Crossing heiress, described the former Northwest mounted policeman to whom she suddenly announced her engagement after nine years of secret courtship by mail.

Although she is very quiet about her wedding plans, it is rumored among her friends that Rheault, who is now a furniture salesman, will arrive in Boston about the 10th of March, and that the wedding will take place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Roger Cutler, in Needham, on March 19.

PROUD OF FIANCE.

Then abandoning her strenuous career of social service, Miss Bradley will leave Boston immediately for Cobourg, Ont., where, she declares, she intends to devote herself exclusively to running a household.

When he visited her home for the first time last Fall after their long correspondence, the debonaire Canadian made a great hit with Boston's most exclusive social set. Miss Bradley displayed him with pride at a dinner given in his honor at the home of Mrs. Cutler.

"There was something spontaneous and breezy about his manner that was disarmingly charming. We all understand why Rosamond was attracted by him," said one of her intimates today. Another friend quoted Miss Bradley as saying:

INSPIRATION TO HER.

"Across the hundreds of miles that separated us, I could feel his personality flashing to me through his amusing, vivid letters. While I was in Labrador, undergoing hardship and battling with obstacles in helping the poor little orphans with whom I worked, his letters were a continual inspiration. There was something indomitably courageous about him that strengthened me.

"He seemed to me like a super-man, equipped to meet any difficulty. Strength was his outstanding quality, I felt. And when I finally received him in my home and we talked together, my intuition about him was confirmed. He is all-man. That is my best way of describing him."

Held in Money Plot

JOSEPH SAVICSKY AND ANNA BARNSKY.

The couple who live and were arrested in Lawrence will be tried in the Federal Court March 22, on a charge of raising $1 bills to $10 and $10 bills to $20. They are sweethearts and Savicsky works in a Lawrence mill. He is said to have admitted raising the bills and giving them to the girl to cash.

GIRL EXPLAINS HOW SHE PASSED BAD MONEY

Miss Anna Baronski of Lawrence who was before Federal Commissioner Hayes today with her fiance, Joseph Savicsky of Lawrence, on counterfeiting charges, has told Federal agents, the latter say, just how she passed on merchants in the West End of Boston raised $10 and $20 bills which had been doctored by Savicsky.

Savicsky and the girl are charged with passing bad money. There is an additional charge against the man of raising the denominations of one and two-dollar bills to tens and twenties.

The Federal agents declare that both have "come clean" and admitted the charges. They say the girl described the method of passing the bad money thus:

Savicsky would give her some ones and twos which had been raised—rather clumsily by means of lead pencil markings—10 ten times their original denomination.

The girl would enter a woman's apparel store in the West End, buy a cheap hat or a pair of stockings or some article of small value and hand out a raised bill.

She would receive good money in change. Going to another part of the West End she would repeat the process. Thus, through the Fall and Winter, many of these raised bills were passed.

John J. McGrath, in charge of the secret service for New England district, is gratified at the arrest of Savicski in particular.

Another man, Steve Klamansky, who escaped when Savicsky was be ng arrested, is sought. The Federal agents say that both Savicsky and Klamansky have police records for larceny.

$10,000 BLAZE IN PEARL ST. BUILDING

Fire of unknown origin caused a loss of $10,000 at the Hind & Coon Co., No. 126 Pearl street. The building is a four-story brick structure and situated in the heart of the mill supply district. This company deals in mill supplies and belting.

William Nelson and Lectance Blair, employes of the John J. McCarthy Co., said that the fire had been burning for more than an hour before it was discovered.

WOMAN DIES FROM LIQUOR

Poison Moonshine Also Sends Four Men to Hospital

A middle-aged woman is dead and four men were overcome by poison liquor in the last twenty-four hours. The woman died at the City Hospital after having been picked up in the South End by the police. The men were picked up unconscious by the police in the streets of the city.

21 Deaths from moonshine in this State since January 1.

The dead woman is Mrs. Julia Monico, thirty-eight years old, of No. 488 Tremont street, South End. She was picked up on Tremont street by the police of LaGrange street station and removed to the hospital. There it was found she was also suffering from pneumonia.

William McGaffery, fifty years old, of No. 16 Hillside street, Hyde Park, was removed by the police of LaGrange street station from No. 595 Washington street, South End. At the hospital it was found he was suffering from alcoholism and severe cuts and bruises. He is in a dangerous condition.

John H. McGee, seventy-two years old, of No. 32 Mitchell street, South Boston, was picked up by the police of Athens street station at D and Broadway, South Boston. He was taken to the hospital, where he was found to be suffering from alcoholism and a fractured left ankle, believed to have been suffered in a fall.

Walter Walsh, thirty years old, address unascertained, was taken by the police from No. 12 Springer street, South Boston. He is at the hospital, dangerously ill from alcoholism.

James Carrell, forty-three years old, of No. 24 Gorham street, Lowell, was removed to the hospital by the police after he was found badly beaten in a South End street. He is suffering from alcoholism and severe cuts and bruises.

DISOWNS WEDDING LICENSE

Rich Newton Youth Denies Knowledge of Girl's Plan to Marry

Donald Anderson George, scion of a wealthy Newton family, denies all knowledge of marriage intentions filed at Newton City Hall by Miss Mildred Viola Loring of Hingham.

But Miss Loring says, "I truly love him. All will be well," and she ascribes George's demeanor to "temperment."

"He asked me to take out the intentions because he said he couldn't be bothered with such details, so I obeyed him," Miss Loring declared.

A BIT TEMPERAMENTAL.

"Any girl would do as he says, he is so wonderful, but a bit too temperamental," she continued. "I am sure that he will marry me and if he does I shall forget all the sleepless nights he has caused me since he told mother he knows nothing about the marriage intentions."

She related the story of her romance. They met, she said, in a Boston business house where both are employed. He was her first and only "beau," said Miss Loring, and she was overjoyed when he started making love to her. On December 19 past, George swore eternal devotion, according to the girl.

GIRL IN SOUTH?

"I never doubted his word, and I don't doubt him now. He speaks of another girl in the South, but that I know, is just to tease me."

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marc Loring. George was noncommittal, except to plead ignorance of the marriage intentions. He is a war veteran.

AGED CRIPPLED WOMAN IS EVICTED

Mrs. Mary Hubbard has been stricken with rheumatism ten years, and has been unable to move from her bed.

Her daughter, Mrs. R. D. MacKinnon, has made her infirmity as easy as possible to bear, feeling that she would never move again as long as she lived. Mrs. Hubbard's other children living in different parts of Boston have done all they could to make her last years happy in spite of her affliction.

They planned never to torture her by moving her again until she was carried to her last resting place.

But they reckoned without their landlord, John Lynch, a letter carrier. He owns the three-family house at No. 97 Mt. Ida road, Dorchester, and despite the fact that the MacKinnons had lived in his house over ten years he has ordered them out.

Today, as a result, the old lady took the perilous journey. She was moved, quivering with pain, from her bed to a large chair. The chair was carried down the narrow winding stairway, placed in an auto, and she was driven slowly to a house on Dix street, Dorchester.

On the top floor of the Mt. Ida road dwelling Thomas Finnegan and his wife have lived for five years. They also have been ordered out and so far have been unable to find a place to live.

Landlord Lynch stated today that he intended to enclose the front piazza with glass. On being reminded that this would not necessarily upset the two households, he stated that he "had other plans." It is understood in the neighborhood that the two apartments have already been rented for a higher rental.

$10,000,000 RUM FRAUDS TRIAL OPENS

New York, Feb. 28.—A jury was chosen today to try Harold L. Hart, former New York Federal prohibitional director, and fifteen others on charges of engineering a huge conspiracy which illegally released $10,000,000 worth of liquor from bond.

William A. Orr, who was secretary to former Governor Whitman, and various drug company officials are among those indicted with Hart. Prosecutor Newell Mattuck carefully explained to each member of the jury that it was not charged the government had been swindled out of money, "but out of the right to properly administer the law."

At one point in the selection of the jury Col. Thomas B. Felder, chief of counsel for the defendants, addressed the jury, saying:

"There is an organization spread over this country and in this city known as the Ku Klux Klan. Does any member of this panel belong to that organization?" There was a grinning silence on the part of the panel.

TRAIN WRECK VICTIMS ARE RECOVERING

Orange, Feb. 28.—All the victims injured in the train wreck on the Boston & Maine Railroad, near here, are recovering today, according to reports from the local hospital. Work was started today to salvage the cars which went over a fifteen-foot embankment into Millers River. The tracks torn up by the derailment have been repaired and the line is now open in both directions.

Carlyle Moore, author of "Listening In," was the guest of President Chasidy at the luncheon of the Kiwanis Club, at the Boston City Club. Mr. Moore spoke briefly on tragedies and comedies he had come across backstage.

SPRINGFIELD "QUEEN" IN RUM THEFT CASE

How five barrels of wine, seized by prohibition agents on the farm of Frank Jarry of Southwick, came into possession of Mrs. Mary Sinisi calchi, "Queen of the Springfield Italian district," will be explained in Federal Court in a few days. Two former dry agents, James A. Tomlin and J. Raymond Daniels, are on trial charged with theft of the wine. It is expected the testimony will bring to attention the murder of Antonio Sinisicalchi, for years ruler of the Springfield Italians.

SEIZE BIG STILL IN DANVERS

Federal officers raided an old Colonial manse in Andover street, on the outskirts of Danvers and seized three 100-gallon stills, two of which were operating; 165 gallons of moonshine and 1,000 gallons of mash. The whiskey, with the exception of one gallon to be kept for evidence, was destroyed by the officers.

Morris Katz of Highland street, Revere, who was found in the place, was arrested as keeper, and was to be arraigned today before United States Commissioner Hayes. It is said he has been arraigned before Hayes before on a similar charge.

EACH OF 35 VOTES COST TOWN $20

Belleville, Ill., Feb. 28.—Each ballot in the primary election here cost the city $20, only thirty-five votes being cast with election expenses totaling $700. It was explained that the light vote was due to the fact that persons not candidates in the primary can be nominated by petition under the Illinois law.

BROOKLINE ASKS TRAFFIC RULE O. K.

Traffic regulations recently adopted by the Brookline selectmen drafted by Chief of Police H. Allen Rutherford, were sent to the State authorities for approval. Some of the regulations have been in force since last Summer but have not been officially adopted. Among these are: No vehicle shall stop with its left side to the curb, unless in an emergency or when directed by a police officer; no vehicle shall stop unless close to the curb; all vehicles going in an easterly direction on Beacon street between Park and Pleasant streets shall use the southerly roadway.

CAMBRIDGE BOY BITTEN BY DOG

While playing at the corner of Cambridge and Third streets, Cambridge, Jacob Belcher, twelve years old, was badly bitten by a dog. He says the dog dashed down Cambridge street and jumped for his face. He beat him off but the dog made another attack and sank his teeth in his left arm. Patrolman Foley rescued the boy and captured the dog.

Belcher was taken to the Middlesex Hospital and treated by Dr. Leo Boucher. He later was able to go to his home.

The dog will be sent to the Angell Memorial Hospital for examination.

MRS. SALUDES BREAKS DOWN IN COURT

New York, Feb. 28.—Mrs. Paulette Saludes took the stand today before a Supreme Court jury here to plead for her life. She is charged with the murder of Oscar Martellere, a broker, in his offices, in October last.

"Mrs. Saludes was in a condition of mind where she did not know the motive and quality of her act," Attorney James A. Turley, her counsel, declared in opening the defence on the second day of the trial. It had been admitted that it was she who shot the broker.

When Gertrude Thompson, the girl stenographer for the broker, and the star witness for the State, took the stand, a battle of glances ensued between witness and defendant. Mrs. Saludes could not stand the strain and when the girl stepped off the witness stand the former collapsed.

B. U. "THESPIANS" TO PRESENT FARCE

Collette Humphrey

The "Thespians," dramatic society of the Boston University College of Liberal Arts will serve "Lima Beans," the title of a farce which the club will give tomorrow noon in the college building. The farce is a "Scherzo Fantasy" by Alfred Kreymborg Cash. Kathryn Lytle of Wellesley will assume the role of "He," while Collette Humphrey of Jamaica Plain will play the opposite role of "She." Everybody in the college is welcome.

TOLD TO 'SHOW SPEED,' KIRICH RUNS AMUCK

There was a crimson-hued hurricane in the New England Bedding Company factory on Congress street, South Boston, when Foreman Jacob Minsk of Dorchester, ordered David Kirich, forty-one years old, of No. 169 Windsor street, Cambridge, to "speed up."

Kirich picked up a mattress needle, a foot long, witnesses say, and sprang at Minsk. Minsk was about to go down for the count, when his son Harry jumped to his rescue.

Kirich slung an empty milk bottle at Minsk, Sr., and beat him over the head with a can of ink. The red ink obscured the rest of the battle and damaged thirteen hammocks, valued at $160.

At the Athens street police station, Kirich finished the day by breaking the bowl in his cell.

In South Boston court today he was found guilty on four charges, totalling one month in jail and $145 in fines. He appealed.

BIRTHDAY CAKE PRESENTED FULLER

A huge birthday fruit cake, made by the best cook of the League of Women Voters, was presented by that organization to Lieutenant - Governor Alvan T. Fuller upon his forty-fifth birthday at their headquarters, No. 3 Joy street.

The Lieutenant - Governor was taken by complete surprise when the lighted fruit cake with forty-five candles was placed before him by Miss Priscilla McClellan. He afterwards spoke on "Government Efficiency."

BAY OF FUNDY IS ICE BOUND, A RARE EVENT

Eastport, Me., Feb. 28.—For the first time within memory of "the oldest inhabitant" people can walk from one island to another across ice in the Bay of Fundy. All sorts of Winter sports are being enjoyed by residents of the West Isles just off the Maine coast, including horse racing on ice and ice boating. The ice in parts of the Bay of Fundy in the vicinity of the West Isles is two feet thick. This is considered very unusual because of the turbulent currents and the heavy seas.

MEDFORD MAN HELD ON FORGERY CHARGE

Samuel Lotow, twenty-two years old, of No. 275 Main street, Medford, was arrested in Cambridge on an indictment warrant charging him with forgery, uttering and larceny in ten counts. Lotow is married. He is charged with forging the name of his father, Abraham Lotow, proprietor of the Kingston Manufacturing Company. He is said to have a police record as a worthless check operator. He was brought to Boston police headquarters.

DAVE SHADE WALLOPS GEORGE WARD IN FURIOUS TUSSLE

NOW SEEKS A TITLE BOUT WITH MICKEY WALKER

By JACK CONWAY.

Dave Shade is today thumping on Mickey Walker's front door. All he asks is that the noble boss of the welterweight division stroll out on his own veranda and engage in an exchange of punches.

Shade continued his merry surge in the general direction of the welterweight championship when he walloped George Ward of Elizabeth, N. J., in a furious ten-round tussle at the Arena A. C.'s show at Mechanics Building.

We use the word furious sparingly in our accounts of boxing matches. The average ring contest at the best is only interesting; many bore one considerably.

Shade and Ward, real blue-ribbon performers, battled like a couple of warriors of old. Ward fought an uphill, courageous fight. His gallant struggle after almost being knocked out in the fourth round won for him favor with the crowd. The result was that many of the fans amused themselves trying to root the decision in for the "Skeeter."

Sentiment alone, however, should not sway boxing officials. Apparently Referee Joe O'Connor and Judges McDermott and Glacken vote on what happens within the ring and not from the amount of cheering for a boxer, as they did the only right and proper thing when they gave the verdict to the Californian.

There is nobody who admires a courageous boxer any more than this writer does, but no sport would flourish for long if decisions were rendered on sentiment instead of points scored.

Shade had seven rounds. Ward three.

That's the story.

Ward won in the cheering section three to one. So does every "under dog" who proves he has a fighting heart.

When one listens to the cries of the fanatics, one should also remember that a short ender can yell three times as loud as a normal person. It was so even in the days when merry Bob Roy of Scotland knocked over the king's men.

Which is getting away from what we termed a furious tussle.

After it was announced that Shade weighed 152 pounds and Ward 146 pounds, the dear old chimes sounded and Shade sent a couple of hefty lefts to the jaw. Ward was swinging wildly and Dave managed to get under his opponent's thrusts and count to the body.

When it was beginning to look like a Shade parade, Ward came to life and gave the gallery gods something to cheer about when he counted with smashing left and right hand uppercuts. This caused Shade to spurt and he piled up enough points in close to win the round.

It was quite a different story in the second frame Ward did some sharp, clean punching. His left rocked off Shade's jaw and sunk into the Californian's ribs. Shade got in close and counted heavily to the body. Ward did not care for this kind of warfare and kept at long range when possible which enabled him to do effective work with his left. It was Ward's round. We do not believe that even Leo Flynn would have cast a dissenting vote.

Possibly it was the result of Eddie Mack's whisperings between rounds. Anyhow Shade whanged out in true champion style in the third frame. Ward forgot himself long enough to start swinging. And Shade just refused to stay where his opponent could take a lock at him.

Meanwhile David of the House of Flynn did some effective scoring at close quarters. Large Joseph McCarthy said Shade had the round. And Jack Kenny agreed with him. All we had to do was to nod our head to make it unanimous.

If you are a Shade rooter, you had a good time in the fourth frame.

If you had your jack on Ward, you had a very sad three minutes.

The lights almost went out for Ward in this chapter. Shade, still the aggressor, kept swinging with wild right hand punches which were not very successful in reaching their mark. His line of attack made Ward alert for right handers. Without warning, Shade let loose a short, sharp left hook to the jaw which shook Ward to the very soles of his feet. A right to the jaw made George's knees sag.

Another solid wallop to the jaw would have sent the fans through the ropes. But even though dazed, Ward was coy enough to evade his rival's swings. He took a few rifle hammering around the body but was able to force a Rudolph Valentino smile on the session ended. Don't ask us who had this round.

There was not a great deal of action in the fifth. Ward was in poor condition, while Shade could not find an opening for a knyo. Dave did manage to do some scoring to the body and won the frame.

* * *

Then the Ward surge starts and Sentiment took charge of the bridge. The Skeeter did some fine work with his long left hand in the sixth frame. He counted on the head and body equally well, while Shade did considerable missing. The result was that Happy handed the blue ribbon to Ward.

Ones nors in the seventh session did Ward gain the laurels as a result of effective scoring with his left. The veteran Jack Sheehan murmured that Shade must make a strong finish to win.

This is just what Dave did, as Marty Killilea will tell you. The last three frames were crammed full of all kinds of thrills. It was the seventh round of the recent Shade-Shevlin bout in three acts. At times the boys stood head to head and engaged in a terrid exchange of blows. Shade was too strong at this style of warfare and although bothered considerably from claret which had been trickling from a gash over his right eye from the fifth frame, he managed to pile up the most points.

* * *

Came the decision.

Sentiment screeched.

Justice smiled serenely.

Lou Paluso, who will be twenty-one years old tomorrow, stopped Dick Russell in four rounds. This was Lou's present to Leo Flynn. Tomorrow in New York, Leo will tender a birthday party to the coming featherweight champion of the world. He will present this brilliant Italian boxer with a $1,000 diamond studded watch fob.

Young Tansey of Roxbury, won over Tommy Corbett of Gloucester in eight frames, while John Studdy of New York bested a young man by the name of Jimmy Cello of Revere in six frames.

In passing may we remark that the show doped perfectly?

* * *

Harry Kelly dropped down to the press table with the announcement he has been asked by Phil Bernstein to second Frankie Genaro in his bout with Pancho Pancho Villa in New York, tomorrow night. Kelly is trainer of Johnny Wilson and one of the world's best seconds.

Incidentally it begins to appear as though Wilson may defend his title in a Boston ring against George Shade.

Until we meet again!

Jess Willard Plans Long Training

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Jess Willard, plans to establish a training camp at Excelsior Springs, Mo., to condition himself for his contest with Floyd Johnson in New York, May 12.

The former champion intends to spend at least six weeks in camp before he goes to New York to finish the work.

He spent an hour and a half in a gymnasium and boxed four rounds.

BATES WINS MAINE ICE CHAMPIONSHIP

Orono, Me., Feb. 28.—Bates College defeated the University of Maine, 8 goals to 4, here today, and won the State hockey championship. An overtime period was required to decide the contest. Two games in the State championship remain to be played, but Bates' lead cannot now be overcome.

CHARLEY FARRELL WILL SCOUT FOR BRAVES

By NICK FLATLEY.

Charles Aloysius Farrell, the Duke of Marlboro, one of the most popular players who ever wore the breastplate and the mask that go with a catcher's work, has signed to act as a coach and scout for the Braves.

Thus "Sharley" returns to the Boston National League club after an absence of eleven years, for he was with the Braves when John M. Ward was president and the club received its present fighting name.

The come-back of the popular player will be received as welcome news by thousands of fans. One of the best beloved players at the "Old Tinsey" rooplos last Summer was the Duke of Marlboro. Charley was a young rookie who got his first chance to judge by his antics.

Farrell starts for the St. Petersburg camp on Friday and will be one of the assistants to Manager Mitchell. Dick Rudolph, who suggested the name for Bald Pate Inn, will be the other stand-by for "Mitch" in the preliminary work and also through the season.

Charley has been one of the great characters of baseball and one of the great catchers of all time. He may not be classed on a par with Buck Ewing and Martin Bergin but he's not far behind.

He started to play professionally in 1887 with Salem, and then he and Hugh Duffy joined Anson's Chicago club through the kindly offices of the late Tim Murnane.

When the Brotherhood was formed Charley and Hugh joined Comiskey's Chicago forces. Then in the next year's war both came to the famous Boston Red Stockings, who played on the Congress street grounds and won the American Association flag. On the organization of the twelve-club National League Charley was assigned to Pittsburgh and then was traded to Washington. He was with the Giants in 1894, 1895 and a part of 1896.

Back to Washington until 1899 was the next move. He was with Brooklyn in 1899 and 1900 and with the Boston American League club with Jimmie Collins and the others during the pennant winning seasons of 1903 and 1904.

He retired in 1905 and since has been connected with major league clubs as a scout, and was with the Yankees in 1909, 1911, 1915, 1918 and 1919.

President Matheweon and Manager Mitchell are delighted to have the Duke of Marlboro and his smile and cheery countenance associated with the Braves. He knows a lot about catching and how to coach pitchers and he knows a good player when he sees one and he'll be a big help to the Braves.

Welcome back home, Charley. Here's to you.

It May Be a World's College Tennis Championship

By Universal Service.

New York, Feb. 28.—The Inter-Collegiate Lawn Tennis Championships to be held in the East in late June may have both a national and international aspect.

Officials of the United States Lawn Tennis Association announce that the University of California plans to send a team or three or four players, and that it is probable one of the Pacific Coast Northwestern colleges will enter a team.

A combined Oxford-Cambridge team, which will come here for dual and triangular college matches, will enter the Inter-Collegiate Championship if they arrive in time.

NASH UNCOVERS THREE FINDS FOR BOX

Coach Ken Nash discovered three young twirlers on the Tufts baseball squad. They have all the earmarks of coming stars on the mound. Tillinghast and Ryan, left-handers, and Jim Bascon, a giant right hand flinger, show surprising good form for inexperienced young pitchers, and Nash is confident that all will prove finds.

Art Kroog, the big pitcher from last season's freshman team, of whom much is expected this year, has been laid up with an attack of grip but Nash hopes to have him work out with the others by the end of the week.

There is a possibility that Chief Bender will help with the pitchers next week.

This Spring Tufts will not have a freshman nine. Instead the freshman candidates and the players cut from the first squad will be united on one team, which during the early season will engage the varsity in daily practice sessions.

After the varsity season opens the second team will play a schedule of its own. This seems to be the solution to the problem of keeping players who have been cut from the varsity from dropping the game entirely.

In this way many players who were overlooked in the crowd will be given the opportunity to work under the eye of a professional coach and develop into varsity material.

MIDDLESEX CREWS START WORK AGAIN

Indoor crew work has been resumed at the Middlesex school in North Concord. Charles W. Locke of the faculty is coach of the candidates, who work on the machines in the gym.

'WILD NIGHT' AT B. A. A. JUNGLE DINNER

The B. A. A. served a "jungle dinner" in the gymnasium, but some of the diners did not eat much, for two dancers, dressed in grass skirts, did a terpsichore act according to South Sea Island fashion.

Dr. A. J. Hamilton was master of ceremonies and the dinner would make one think of a game hunt in Africa, for Kongoni, Buffalo tail, giraffe chops, curry Manhasse, Guanda grasslo and Nirobi coffee were on the menu.

A brown bear roamed almost at will although chained to the wall and almost everybody present, and there were 390 at the banquet, gave the brain cub something to eat.

The gym with "spruce and fir and hemlock" and wild animals in cages looked like a forest.

DILBOY POST HOLDS A SHOW TOMORROW

Tomorrow evening in K. of C. Hall, Somerville, the Dilboy Post, V. F. W. will offer an all-star card of amateurs in the following classes: 112, 118, 126, 135 and 175 pounds.

The proximity of the New England and National Championships has benefitted all the good boys to get out and hustle and the entry list is the largest of the year.

JACK SHARKEY IS AFTER WILDE

Liverpool, Feb. 27. — Freddie Welsh, former world's lightweight champion, and Jack Sharkey, the American feather-weight are here seeking matches with leading European fighters.

Jack Sharkey.

Sharkey has issued a challenge to Jimmy Wilde, world's flyweight champion, over whom he gained an unofficial decision in America. He offered to make the bantam-weight limit in meeting Wilde and also announced his intention of going to Paris in quest of a bout with Eugene Criqui, European featherweight titleholder.

"I have no intention of challenging any one," Welsh declared for his part. "But I have no objection to any one challenging me."

Will Hold Shoot April 19

The Concord Rifle Club will open its outdoor season, with an open shoot on April 19 at the club range, on Bristol Hill.

STACIAK WILL CLASH WITH RUSSIAN

By RINGSIDE.

Wrestling continues to keep banging away on all cylinders.

Witness another bang-up card as the Old Howard's offering for its show at the Grand Opera House tomorrow night.

Joe Polk, A. E. F. champion, will tackle Georges Kotsonaros, Greek title holder.

Stanley Staciak, Polish Hercules, will oppose Paul Pinsky, Russian bear.

John Kilonis, Greek star, will oppose Otis Gillette, French champion.

Polk and Kotsonaros are sure to put up a stirring quarrel. Inasmuch as the winner will probably be matched to collide with John Pesek, the tussle for supremacy tomorrow night is sure to be a tough one.

Staciak will receive a real test when he mingles with Pinsky. The latter weighs 210 pounds and is nearly six feet tall. He says he will force the issue from the kickoff and that he is confident he will be well out in front when festivities end.

The bout between Kilonis and Gillette is also expected to produce an abundance of thrills.

TIGERS FAVORITE OVER HARVARD IN ICE HOCKEY GAME

COLLEGE RIVALS CLASH IN 'RUBBER' BATTLE

Princeton is a 10 to 9 favorite over Harvard in the rubber game of the three-game hockey series at the Arena tonight. Princeton won the first game here, 3 to 1, and the Crimson took the second match in Princeton, 2 to 1.

The speed, stick handling and team work of the Tigers catch the fancy of the close students of hockey, yet the fact that Harvard rises on great occasions finds many of the fans leaning to the Crimson to win.

Harvard has Owen for both defence and attack in the forward line he will be flanked by Walker and by either Larocque or Hill. Beals, the classy centre ice man, will appear in some part of the match.

Crosby is Harvard's defence man, who is picked to stop the assaults of the Tiger forwards. If Owen moves to the forward line, Jack Hammond will work in the defence with Crosby. Hammond is a fine hockey player.

Coach Saw Will Present Great Machine

Against this great array of hockey talent Coach Gaw has a great machine. Captain Howell Van Gerbig, who is versatile, will start at right wing for Princeton. If the Harvard attack becomes too pressing Van will drop back to defence.

In centre ice Princeton has the incomparable Davis, one of the best forwards the Tigers have had since the late Bobby Baker. At left wing is Buzz Stout, a remarkably fast skater.

In the defence Princeton has Wall and Scull, two good men.

Should See a Great Team Tonight

Unless the Princeton team has gone back a long ways since the first Harvard game, local fans should see a great machine in action.

Leo Hughes, one of the greatest college players of the year will be opposed by his craftiest opponent tomorrow night in the B. A. A.-Boston College game when he faces Irving Small, left wing of the Union team. The battle between them should feature the all important match between the crack teams.

Mike Goodman Will Play for Duluth.

Mike Goodman, ... speed merchant and former member of the famous old Wanderers, Ottawa championships, will be in the centre ice for Duluth in the Eastern Monday night against the Victorias and against Boston College on Tuesday night.

The Victorias are staking every thing on turning back the B. A. A. in the Eastern group game at the Arena next Wednesday night. If New Haven should turn back B. A. A. Saturday night in New Haven and the Vics also win, New Haven would be in a tip tie with the Uncors.

VILLA'S MANAGER PREDICTS KAYO

Kino Flores and Eddie Wagner will meet in the semi-final of twelve rounds tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden, New York. The promoter Tex Rickard's countryman, Pancho Villa, meets Frankie Genero in the final of fifteen rounds for the fly-weight title. Flores in the few starts he has made here has impressed the fans by his stamina and fighting spirit and will show well against the Philadelphian, who was beaten in a twelve-round bout by Jack Bernstein in the Garden. It was Wagner's only defeat in eight bouts, his latest victory being over Babe Herman.

Frankie Genero

Villa will win by a knockout tomorrow if the prediction of his manager, Frank Churchill, comes true. It took months to make this match, but now that the boys are to meet for the third time indications point to a victory for Villa.

YOUNG MONTREAL TO BOX CURTIN

LIBERTY BATTLES MILTON FIVE

Tonight there will be a basketball contest in the Girls' High School Hall, West Newton street. It will bring together the Liberty Exchange team and the Milton quintet connected with the Milton exchange. These two outfits have been shooting at each other's aggravations are best known as the "Hallo" boys.

J. P. Walsh

The players from the Liberty exchange include a couple who have been with the Liberty quintet. Among the other stars are the two Walsh boys, Dan and Roy, who work the back positions. Timmy Ivers and Gene Kelly are forwards, and Jimmy Murray and Charlie Magner are called upon to sub.

How the Milton boys will make out with this gathering of stars remains to be proven. Those who will work for the Milton exchange will be Joe Hickey, Charlie Boyce, Will Carmody, Harry Sullivan, John Collins, Jimmy Buckley, Eddie Dooley and Eben Ryder.

Fred Collins, who handles the affairs of the Liberty quintet, has kept his boys very busy this season.

Sarazen Tells How to Play Golf

By GENE SARAZEN,
World's Champion Golfer.

THE stroke of the chip shot, although short and snug, has a snappy and very firm finish.

The firmer you hit the ball the better. Most people make the mistake of "babying" the shot. The ball must be hit boldly, the same as on any other shot, but with a shorter back-swing.

In making the chip shot, the feet do not change at all. There is no shifting.

The right heel is raised slightly to aid in allowing the right arm and the right hip to turn with the swing, but the feet haven't shifted.

The right elbow is held against the body. There should be no freedom of laxity in the arms to allow for error.

It is evident from the position of the right arm that I have cut across the ball. That is fact, because I was endeavoring to put a back-spin on the shot to have the ball stop dead. If you were to play the pitch-and-run, the stroke would be straight ahead.

The head, right shoulder, right hip and right foot are all in alignment.

OUT in Chicago, the boys and the girls are doing their spooning now in taxis. But they'll never do it here. Not enough million dollar lovers. Any chap who could make saccharine remarks while watching a Boston meter tack on thirty cents per block would have the well-known Rudolph distanced in the amorous league.

Kisses have brought high prices in courts, but a lot of new records would be established if they became the habit in our seagoing cabs. Coy maiden, chronic time waster, would have exam in the hole for twenty bucks before he could even hold hands. By the time he made real progress, he would be in debt for life. Like most Boston institutions, our taxis were made for practical purposes, only. No jouncy could gaze into gazelle like eyes of his loved one, without sneaking a peek at the clicking clock, no and then. And that would crash the love scene. Meters are dark in a lot of cabs, but they work just the same. Shock in terms at the finish, but it's better at that than gradual impoverishment. Boston husbands used to give wives monthly charge around with U.S.A. I don't it obsolete. Said bubbles are still toiling to get even with the world, again. Start a real jag ride in a taxi, and it's dollars to doughnuts you finis in a patrol. You can ride miles for a dollar in most big cities, but here it's check in cent you dollars for a mile. And from the looks of things, they pick the drivers so that all arguments are won before they start. Drivers who went on strike recently were probably sore because they didn't have enough increments to make life interesting. Riders always too weak after getting bull to put in any kind of fight. If those birds were paid the usual 10 per cent. tip, they'd be as rich as bootleggers. But what ordinary mortal can afford to be so lavish?

WHEN we were boys, we were mighty glad to get a dime for shoveling the "beautiful" off a neighbor's sidewalk. I seen a poorly-clad gink the other day shoveling off a sidewalk and decided to question him. "How is it that you are a snow shoveler?" I asked. "Couldn't get a job as anything else," he answered, "so I started in as a snow shoveler." I'm only a snow shoveler's laborer—there's the snow shoveler." Irish Back on Top Roost as Champion Fighters

By TAD

Jack Dempsey

When Gene Tunney was handed the decision over Harry Greb the Irish moved up a step in the ownership of titles.

Tunney is again light-heavyweight champion of America and now five of the pugilistic titles are in the hands of the Irish.

They are. Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney, Mickey Walker, Johnny Kilbane and Joe Lynch. There are only three other titles they can grab, viz, Middleweight, lightweight and fly-weight.

This is the first time that the Irish have ruled the roost in some years. They have had contenders right along, but never could quite reach the top.

Six years ago the Jews threatened to be boss and had Levinsky, light-heavyweight champion; Lewis, welter champion, and Leonard, lightweight champion.

That went for a while, but age killed off Levinsky and Lewis after a tough battle.

CHANCE COUNTS DOZEN RED SOX PITCHERS

By CHARLES E. PARKER

Folks meet Fowlke

The Fowlkes we're introducing to you [illegible] of the saltatling sobriquet—"Hy" Fowlkes, son of O.J. [illegible] Fowlkes of Pocahontas, Tenn.

Hy is one of an even dozen [illegible] week. Frank Chance will give [illegible] to himself a try for the [illegible] Red Sox.

There's quite a lot of Fowlkes [illegible] him, according to statistics [illegible] larger specimen of the [illegible] over an area measuring 6 feet 6½ [illegible] corns to dandruff, and about half [illegible] the vaccination mark to the dearest [illegible] his right shoulder.

Yes, folks, Fowlkes is the most elephantine specimen that will board the ark for the Ozarks this week, and if he goes as big as his size—well, just imagine it.

"Hy" stood pretty high with Memphis, in the Southern Association last year when that team barely missed the league championship for he was its leading twirler and won 19 and lost only 9 games in the course of the season and boasted a batting mark of .233, which isn't so bad for a flinger.

He Is Only One of Collection of Behemoths

Fowlkes is one of the colossal collection that will troop into the Red Sox training camp within the next eight or ten days, for no less than 17 of the 32 players scheduled to report stretch skyward considerably.

Carl Stimson, a recruit twirler from the Rock Island team, could part Hy's hair without rising on tiptoe, for Carl stands six feet, five inches. If Hy needed assistance with his dress tie, Floyd Herman, weighing first sacker, six feet three and one-half; David Black, semi-pro southpaw from Racine, Wisconsin, six feet, three; or Howard Ehmke, recently acquired Tiger twirler, six feet three, could help out Hy without mounting a chair.

Then there are John Cole, Elmer Miller, George Burns, Curtis Fullerton, Jack Quinn, Alex Ferguson and Ed Percy of last year's Red Sox and Al DeVormer, ex-Yank, Frank O'Neil, ex-Yank, Ed Hollahan, Norman Whitehill, Milan Kocourek, Dick Reichle, Evansville recruit who stands six feet or better on two feet.

There Are 191 Feet of Players in Club

Yes, you could take that gang and the remaining members of the official Red Sox party [illegible] will report at Hot Springs, stand them end to end and the topmost bird would have to bend double to scratch the nose of Bunker Hill Monument. There are 191 feet of players and when you add on the heights of Pat and Chance Carles Jimmy Burke and Jack Ryan, and Secretary Graver, you've assembled quite a pile.

A lot of the boys, in addition to "Hy" Fowlkes, need [illegible] to [illegible] Boston ball fans [illegible] there's been a lot of swapping and [illegible] sought on in the past few weeks and there's the usual number of rookies to be tested during to training season.

Al DeVormer Comes From Yanks

From the Yanks come Al DeVormer catcher, George Murray and Frank O'Neil pitchers, Wilson Fewster, Norman McMillan and Joan Mitchell infielders and Camp Skinner, outfielder; from Detroit come Howard Ehmke and Ual Holling, pitchers; from Washington come Val Picinich [illegible] Ehmke, Shanks, utility fielder. Memphis sends Fowlkes, Rock Island sends Stimson, pitcher, Omaha sends Herman, first sacker; Evansville sends Reichle, outfielder, from the semi-pro ranks of St. Louis comes Al Brecht, catcher; from the Racine semi-pro team comes Black, southpaw twirler, and from Lawrenceville Hill, comes Whitney, another semi-pro southpaw.

This [illegible] Yanks, [illegible] Pitcher Curtis Fullerton, Catcher Leibold Monaks and Harris of last season's Sox trade up the line from minor [illegible] Manager Hendrick to [illegible] a world series.

Air of Confidence at Headquarters.

There is an [illegible] around Red Sox headquarters [illegible] boys are being counted for Fri day's getaway. Manager Hendrick [illegible] with new players and prefers watching control over organization of striking youngsters with sufficient [illegible] of veterans to inspire steadiness.

And while the Red Sox secretary [illegible] in name he is not as grave in spirit as has been the case in past years, for, so far as he knows, there is not a single holdout in the squad.

Lane's said this morning that more than 80 per cent. of the squad was perfectly satisfied with the contracts offered, and that in the remaining 1 per cent there exists but small issues over the salaries offered and these

BOSTON AMERICAN'S TWO PAGES OF LAUGHTER

Newlywed Wails

By Nat N. Dorfman

WHEN a woman says she's through with a man, she most likely means she's run through his bankroll.

Heaven help the poor working man after the poor working girl marries him.

There is nothing new under the sun, except possibly the changing complexions of the average girl during the day when she either uses too much or too little rouge.

It costs so little much to get a divorce these days most men hate to go in hock to gain their freedom preferring to be in the clutches of a woman rather than in the clutches of a loan shark.

A woman knows that the easiest way to get anything out of her husband is to cry, and a man knows the easiest way to get out of anything with regard to his wife is to lie.

Almost any benedict will tell you that with a fellow successful in courting a girl over a dozen suitors, it's winner loss all.

Two can live as cheaply as one, but not when fond mamma and papa disinherit their offspring.

It's a funny thing, but a great many marriages are broken just about the time the man goes [illegible].

They say marriage is a game of patience, and everybody knows philosophers declare patience has its own reward, but just what it is no married man has yet been able to ascertain.

You'll never get a woman to admit it but what most tired business men may be tired about may be their wives.

'Tis said that no man is a hero to his valet. And no woman is a heroine to her cook.

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

THE average man is so busy now a days that a lot of them are doing their courting by telephone.

IT gives a fellow in Chicago a chance to keep company with a girl in Los Angeles.

IF he hasn't got a sweetheart, all he has to do is look through the telephone book until he finds one.

ONE guy was looking for a wife in the As, but he didn't get one until he got up to the Ws.

THE only kind of a girl to have over the telephone is one who'll let you reverse the charges.

THE out of town girls might as well pay for the call, otherwise the men will phone some local dame who only costs them a nickel.

YOU can't please some men at all. One told Central to ring a dame for an hour and then asked Central for his money back.

ANOTHER guy made such ardent love over the wire that the company came and took his telephone out.

HE was trying so hard to send her a kiss over the phone that he chewed half the mouthpiece off of it.

THIS guy had asthma and his sweetheart thought it was Central giving her the "Busy" signal.

ONE fellow was so busy he had his valet call up his girl for him and his girl was so busy she had her maid do the talking.

OF course long distance courtships have their drawbacks. No man likes to phone his fiancee and have Central tell him that the line is busy.

IF she really loves her he'll try again, but if he doesn't he'll look through the book for some other number to call up.

EVERY telephone booth is a matrimonial agency.

ALL you have to get a sweetheart is a nickel and a lot of patience.

ONE girl used a lead slug to call up her fellow. She figured he wasn't worth a nickel.

IN these telephone courtships you don't have any mother-in-law Central is the one who does all the butting in.

AND there's no such a thing as divorce. When a couple get tired of each other, instead of going to court, they just hung up.

ON MAKING THE HOME ATTRACTIVE

If a husband provides what money is needed to run a home and keep it in good condition, it is the duty of his wife to so look after that home that he may be proud to entertain his friends in it.

The man who has not such a home is not going to be a real home man.

He is likely to go to the homes of others, or to clubs or lodges for entertainment.

It is natural for a man to desire to prove that he is able to have an attractive, well kept home, but if, despite what he may do to make it so, he finds his wife does not do her part he is not likely to ask his friends to be his guests. And if he goes to the homes of his friends without inviting them to visit him he will be looked upon as a "piker" who always takes but never gives.

Few men would willingly be away from their homes at night if their homes were what they should be—if they were better kept, if there were less grumbling, less quarreling with the children, more good nature.

Most men want to stay in a home that is a real home.

THE CLINGING VINE

The Story of a Girl and an Experiment and What Happened When a Gallant Cavalier Rescued Her and Won Not Only Her Gratitude, but Her Heart

By Steven S. Blair

EDWARD ASHLEY glanced with mingled pity and disapproval at the disconsolate little figure in the chair at his elbow. It was in wretched taste, he thought to cry like that in a crowded hotel office, but since she was a woman and in trouble somebody ought to try to help her.

"I beg your pardon," he said, with grave respect, "but you seem to be in trouble. Can I be of any assistance?"

Charming Voice.

"Thank you," she murmured in a charming voice. "I am in trouble. At least, I don't know what to do. I didn't expect to spend the night here. But my train was hours late. I missed the 5.30 and there isn't another train until tomorrow morning. So I had to stay over. There's a convention here, you know, and everything is so crowded I can't get a room. I've been to five hotels. They couldn't give me even a cot. And I've got the baby! And—I'm frightened!" Tears again clouded the blue eyes.

Ashley felt a sudden, swift pity. "Don't worry," he cried. "You may have my room. I only got in this evening and haven't even unpacked a toothbrush. I'll speak to the clerk at once."

When they met accidentally, an hour after breakfast, at the hotel entrance, with his taxi the only one in sight, it appeared obvious that he must take her to the station. He fancied on the way over that she was subtly altered, less childish, more at ease, but no less charming.

Suddenly she spoke, hastily, with flaming cheeks and averted eyes. "I—I don't know how to tell you, but—I'm not going to take any train. I came all the way over here so you wouldn't find out that I had deceived you; and now—you're forcing me to confess. I'm awfully ashamed, but——" she hesitated and then the words came in a rush, "it was all pretence last night."

"What was pretence?"

"The tears, my not having a room—everything!"

"And—the baby?" he asked, bewildered.

"Borrowed! Just one of the properties. I'm not married."

"I'm afraid I don't understand." He spoke stiffly. "Of course not. And I'm making a mess of explaining. You see I'm an actress—or going to be. I graduated months ago from a dramatic school and have been trying to get an engagement ever since. I've had some horrid experiences and I suppose I've grown a little—disillusioned. Cicely (my cousin, whom I'm visiting here) adores her husband and thinks all men are like him. We've argued and argued about them.

A Wager

"Finally I made a wager with her that I could sit and cry before dozens of men and not one would try, honestly, to help me. So I went to the hotel. It was an idiotic plan—I see that now—but I wanted to prove my point. And then—she won!" Laughter glinted in her eyes. "But," she grew suddenly grave, "I'm glad I lost."

* * *

Three months later Ashley, just back from his honeymoon and beginning to refer to himself as an "old married man," made what his friends considered a most indiscreet remark, inasmuch as the new Mrs. Ashley was curiously as clever and spirited as she was charming. At a dinner given in her honor the talk drifted to feminine types, and Ashley said, cheerily, "Well, in my day, I've fallen for almost every feminine type, but I've never fallen so hard for any of them as for one of the kind you profess appear to despise—the pretty, helpless, appealing variety, a regular clinging vine." For an instant he paused, his eyes dreamy, and then continued with reminiscent ardor, "Gee! but she was adorable!"

"I Want"—

DRAWN BY POPINI

Copyright, 1923, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

IN the Court of Love—within the Outer Sanctuary for Requests—Cupid sometimes lingers to hear the eager demands of those whose voices rise in agitated tones—each running the gamut of "I want—

"I want—just the one you choose for me, Oh, Love! I know not one that I could love," says she who is demure and shy. "Please sent one to love ME I—I want love!"

"I want," another cries with determined voice, "I want the man you know. I have never met him, 'tis true, nor even seen him yet, but he must exist somewhere, for he lives in my heart. Find him, Oh Love, and send him swift to me! Him only do I want!"

"I want," Miss Haughty says, "the man who doesn't want me. How dare he ignore my tender glances! How dare he—but why should I agitate myself? This is your work. Please arrange it without delay!"

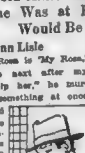
And Cupid closing his book—smiling a little behind the big glasses he has donned to hide his expressive eyes—just looks as inscrutable as Fate, Love Itself, himself.

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

Manuelo Told Anne That the Critical Stage of the Game Was at Hand, and That He Would Be There to Help

By Ann Lisle

"TO me, Rosa is 'My Rose,' because next after my faith I worship her," he murmured, with something at once beautiful and terrible in his voice and manner. "There is only respect in that. Will you please to remember that is so, Miss White Lilac?"



"Yes," I said, meekly, and with a deep pity for the boy who gave his respect .se worthily, though to such an unworthy object. "I'll remember, Senor Ortiz. And I'll understand. Shall we shake hands on it?"

Impatiently he gave me his hand with the affect of brushing me aside and only enduring the necessary preliminaries with one who could take him to Rose.

At the door of the dining room I stopped and pointed the way.

Forgot Something

"I forgot something," I said, weakly, and turned back. But Manuelo smiled wisely and understanding.y and said:

"Thank you for this. It makes us friends. But to be with her alone it is no good to me. It only hurts. You shall come with us, and if it is something I should my without you hear, I say him maybe in Spanish. Rosa—it is I, Manuelo. Your Nelio!"

"Come in—little boy," she laughed, insolently. "From Jaime it is maybe you bring me the news. Yes?"

Manuelo gave vent to something that may have been a Spanish oath. Anyway he ended up with a word resembling the familiar "Crambai" of a related tongue. Then he went into a long dissertation in English, and a peculiar patois Rosa seemed to understand. Out of it I made a jerky set of facts running like this:

"Tonight there is appointment with Pancho. He nibbles—tis all a game with the sun dreamy, and then continued with reminiscent ardor, "Gee! but she was adorable!" but no use. Rosa—it is I, Manuelo. Your Nelio!"

THE ENEMIES OF WOMEN By BLASCO IBANEZ

A Russian Prince of Fabulous Wealth and Some Friends Bind Themselves to Bar All Women From Lives

Prince Michael calls on the Duchess de Delille at her villa

THE STORY TO DATE.

Prince Michael Fedor, a Russian of fabulous wealth, is at Monte Carlo while the Great War is on. With him is his friend, Attilo Castro, and other acquaintances. He announces, to the amusement of his hearers, that he is ruined. The Prince proposes that Castro and a few of their friends live together with the proviso that no women shall enter their lives. They will be known as "The Enemies of Women." Castro tells the Prince he has seen the Duchess de Delille. She calls at the Villa Sirena and asks the Prince to finance her gambling system.

By Vicente Blasco Ibanez,
Author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and other Novels of World Renown

"PERHAPS you think I'm going to fall in love with Alida?"

And the Prince laughed for a long time, as though never tiring of seeing the funny side of such an absurd supposition.

"You'll find that out later on," Castro replied. "All I have to say is that we can't live much longer as Enemies of Women. Look at the Colonel; he's your 'chamberlain,' your aide, the man who obeys you blindly. Well, even he is deserting you. Just notice, whenever he can, he spends his time in the porter's lodge. He has to talk to the gardener's daughter, a little brat he used to see crawling around on all fours, but who is sixteen now, and not bad looking.

"She worked in a millinery shop in Monte Carlo, but follows the styles like a young society girl. The Colonel keeps her provided with high-heeled shoes, short skirts, tams and smart hats, and buys her imitation amber beads. What's how he spends all the money you allow him to take for his services. Sometimes he follows her at a distance in the street, admiring her seductive outline, and her ankles silk-stockinged.

"He patiently cultivates his little 'garden,' and smiles like a fool when he thinks of his future harvest."

One Sunday, getting out of bed, the Prince felt like singing. Perhaps he was unconsciously following the examples of some birds that had been warbling in the caves of Villa Sirena since sunrise, deceived by the spring-like warmth of the midwinter day.

A Desire to Be Alone

He looked out of his bedroom window. The Mediterranean, without a single sail, stretched away in far-off undulations to where it met the sky. The gulls were wheeling in circles, continually dropping into the water, folding their wings, and letting themselves be carried along by the waves. The sandy depths, stirred by the swells, gave the blue sea a lighter shade, which attained along the shore, an opalescent hue, like that of absinthe. Around the promontory, white, luminous foam was constantly being churned among the projecting rocks of the reefs.

The Prince hurried through his toilet. He felt the need of getting out and going somewhere, as though his gardens were too small for him. In the distance the bells of Monte Carlo were ringing, and still farther off those of Monaco were replying; and the merry pealing of the chimes caused a clear, brittle air to vibrate like a crystal plate.

He went downstairs slowly, trying not to make any noise, and when he reached the gate he breathed freely. He had not met any of his companions, not even the Colonel. He wanted to walk to the city alone, as though attracted by the Sunday morning atmosphere of gayety, which, as the afternoon wears on, changes to tiresome ennui.

Outside the gate a girl was waiting for the street car. She was very young, but her feet slanted at a sharp angle on her high-heeled shoes. Her skirt scarcely fell below her knees, showing her well-rounded calves.

The finely woven stockings revealed the whiteness of her flesh. Prominent against the salmon-colored silk sweater was a necklace of large imitation-amber beads.

Her bobbed hair fell smoothly from a jaunty velvet tam-o'-shanter of graceful line. The air of profound respect with which she spoke to him made him recognize her. It was the gardener's daughter. But at the same time she looked at him in a sly way, with ill-concealed curiosity, as though her eyes made a distinction between the master whom her parents held in awe, and the man whom women adored, and of whom she had heard so many things.

The Prince went on, after speaking to her as he would have to a young lady of his own social rank. He was gay that morning, and he laughed inwardly as he thought how later on that little bundle of mischief and ambition would keep men busy. Then he thought of Don Marcos, and what Attilo had told him. Poor Colonel! Imagine the man, at his age, trying to tame such a young wildcat.

He walked with a springy step in the direction of Monte Carlo. He passed the villas and the gardens as though contact with the ground had given his step fresh vigor and as though the Springlike air had aborgated to some extent the laws of gravity.

When he reached the city he stopped in front of the steps of San Carlos Church. Through the door he could see the twinkling tapers, smell the odor of flowers and hear the droning of the organ and the voices of female worshippers. He felt like a boy once more, buoyant and fresh as the morning, and had an impulse to follow the various families in their Sunday best who were ascending the steps. He was a Catholic through his father, a member of the Greek Church through his mother, and nothing by his own termination. Suddenly he felt a certain repugnance for the cavelike darkness, laden with perfumes and dotted with lights.

So he went on breathing the open air with delight.

But as the Prince approached Monte Carlo he met hundreds of soldiers of many nations: French, English, Serbian and a few Russian officers, who reminded him of the former importance that his country had had in the war. Every variety of uniform worn by the various armies of the French Republic passed before his eyes, the horizon blue of the home troops, the mustard color of the soldiers of Morocco, the yellow fatigue caps of the French Legion and the red fez of the Algerians and the negro sharpshooters.

Each one was maimed. The sunny land with its lovely views of sea and sky, seemed peopled with a race that had survived a cataclysm. Elegant looking officers, with handsome figures, limped along, cautiously dragging one leg or else stepping gingerly on a foot so swathed in bandages that it was several times its natural size. Some of them were bent over like old men, leaning on sticks. Men of athletic proportions trembled as they walked, as though their skeletons were rattling about in the hollow wrapper of their bodies, wasted by consumption. Fingers were missing on hands; arms had been cut off until the shapeless stumps looked like fins.

Under their pads of cotton, cheeks retained the gashes made by hand grenades, scars like those left by cancer; the horrible cavity of the nose, which had been torn away in some map, was hidden by a black tampon attached to the ears. The faces of others were covered by masks of bandages, leaving nothing visible save eyes—and eyes that seemed to look with fear to the day when they would have to grow accustomed, in the horror of a face that a few months before had been youthful, and now was like a vision in a nightmare.

NEW SERIES OF AUTHORITATIVE ARTICLES

By Maria Jeritza.

The Famous Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company and One of the Most Beautiful Women of the Day.)

ONE of my readers has asked how she can acquire slim, shapely ankles.

It is natural that a woman should desire pretty ankles, especially in these days of short street costumes and draped hems which so mercilessly reveal any defect of the ankles.

I am going to suggest a little exercise so easy that it can be repeated many times without fatigue and so inconspicuous that it can be practiced almost anywhere while quietly waiting, whether for a cue at a rehearsal, for an elevator in a crowded office building or at home in that moment or two before the tea-kettle boils.

It is excellent not only for the ankles but also for the instep and calves of the legs—in fact, if persisted in it will do wonders for the shape of the lower legs.

Stand straight on the balls of your feet, heels together, toes turned slightly out. Rise as high as you can on the balls of your feet, then on your toes, giving them a good stretch, then return to position. Repeat ten, twenty, thirty, even fifty times until you're tired. This exercise will melt away any superfluous fat on your ankles and will make their muscles trim and flexible.

Dancing also tends to make the ankles small and the lower legs symmetrical. Swimming is another excellent aid.

To wear properly-fitted shoes is most important of all. In walking barefoot there is a normal flexible movement of the sole, instep and ankle so that the ball of the foot touches the ground first, then the heel. This correct method of walking keeps the ankle muscles active and trim. Properly-made street shoes have flexible soles and permit an even distribution of the weight of the shoes that aids in the same method of walking.

Very high-heeled, improperly balanced shoes or slippers, if worn on the street habitually, will cause the ankles to spread and grow weak. They are equally bad for the calves of the legs and the insteps. They even affect the shape of the knee, making them angular and bumpy, and they are believed to cause disturbances of the nerve center of the spine. Of course, on occasions, and as dress shoes, there is little or no harm in wearing these high-heeled slippers if they are well made and large enough to fit properly.

The proper mode of walking will do as much for the symmetry of your ankles and knees and the calves of your legs as the proper carriage of the neck and spine does for the proper posture of your neck, chin, shoulders, chest and abdomen.

DAILY HOROSCOPE

Mary Blake Says:

Today Lucky for Those ON GUARD

OWING to your innate good nature and confidence in others, you must exercise more than ordinary care to avoid being "taken in." Others will soon sense your susceptibility and realize your vulnerability, and, prompted by emotions of self-interest or evil-mindedness, will endeavor to secure your agreement to participate in a wildcat scheme, in unworthy deeds or in risky or dangerous ventures.

Be on your guard every minute of the day; do not accept any proposition today, no matter how tempting it may appear, until you have had time to analyze, study it, and think it over. Take every precaution to avoid such pitfalls.

Any idea or plan that originates in your own mind today will do no harm to anyone; it may on the contrary be very beneficial. "Watchful waiting" should be your motto for any proposition suggested to you by others even though they be your close friends.

BE SURE TO READ THEM TO CHILDREN

A Queer Little Robber.

THERE was quite a stir among the little woodland people when Mama Rabbit ran out of her burrow early one morning crying bitterly.

"Whatever in the world has happened?" asked Chatty Chipmunk. "Something dreadful must have happened, for I've never seen you in tears before. Please tell us what's wrong and we'll all help. Has anyone hurt your feelings?"

By this time there was quite a large crowd collected beside the rabbit house and everyone was trying to get near enough Mrs. Rabbit to find the cause of her tears.

"Oh, my babies! My babies!" sobbed Mama Rabbit. "Someone has entered my house and stolen them while I was away. I told them not to open the door to anyone. The door was locked, but my babies are gone!" And the poor little mother sobbed as if her heart would break. "What shall we do?"

Catch the thief and punish him!" cried Red Tail Squirrel. "It was just about a week ago I heard Mrs. Robin complaining about some one stealing her eggs. She blamed me until I proved I was innocent."

"And only yesterday I discovered two of my eggs were stolen out of my nest," chirped Jenny Wren. "I kept quiet about it, for I felt the still-hunt plan would soon bring the robber to bay. But now I really and truly believe it was either Red Tail Squirrel or Chatty Chipmunk.

"Not me!" cried Chatty Chipmunk. "I wouldn't harm you friends for anything. I know some of my relatives have stolen things at different times, but not me. I've never touched a thing that doesn't rightly belong to me."

"Nor I," joined in Red Tail Squirrel. "I wouldn't harm any of you. And I'm sure I wouldn't think of entering Mama Rabbit's burrow for anything. I've never been inside her house without an invitation."

"Just the same, I believe him guilty!" screamed Jenny Wren. And she flew at his head, trying to pick out his eyes. "I believe him to be the thief. Send him out of these meadows at once and you'll have no more trouble."

"Let me at him!" cried Mama Rabbit, and she made a lunge at Red Tail Squirrel, when the two little bunny boys came bouncing in between them and circled her knees with their paws.

"Oh, Mama!" they cried, with big tears rolling down their cheeks. "It wasn't he at all! It was Old Ermine himself. We saw him through the keyhole and hid. He was angry.

"And I caught him myself," laughed Chatty Chipmunk, merrily. He led the crowd of excited little wood folks over to the place where Robber Ermine was trapped and before you could say "scat!" they hustled him out of the meadow.

From that day to this the babies of the meadow folk have not been bothered.

Jenny Wren apologized to Red Tail Squirrel and every one was happy again. When Ermine went the meadowland was rid of the worst robber it ever had.

for their form and beauty and their harmonious relation. In the photograph the walnut stand is decorated with tiny bands of gold. The chair is upholstered with tapestry in a greenish-gray hue, which brings out the brighter tone of the verdure green shade of the Italian polychrome lamp.

The window treatment forms an excellent background for the grouping, the draperies being of taffeta which repeats the tones of the easy chair, combined with net glass curtains.

THE TROUBLE CLINIC

WHY NOT HAVE ONE? ASKS EDUCATOR

By Wm. A. McKeever,
Widely Known Lecturer and Writer and a National Authority on Juvenile Problems.

HAVE a municipal clinic, a place where parents may come with their difficult problems of child training and receive definite help.

Have the case of an unmanageable boy or girl reported to this clinic before serious damage to mind and body occurred, and thus prevent crime and evil.

Have all young brides and grooms report to the same place for instructions on how to keep out of the divorce court, how to stay happily married and how to take care of the prospective family.

Have the clinic function not only as a place of definite correction of juvenile error in its beginning, but a school of elementary instruction as to how to do right and go right for the future.

The foregoing is not my own idea, but the dream and partly the practice of a social sergeant. When he has learned to do as an individual he would have his city do on a large scale.

"Eighty-five per cent of the criminals whom we handle are young men and boys under twenty-one," said he, "and three-fourths of these could be saved from their wrong before they begin it if one only had the organization to meet their early need for relief."

This man has dealt directly with thousands of parents who have come to the police station as a sort of lost-and-found department. "Do not blame parents, help them," he contends. "Speak out and write everywhere what are constantly finding fault with parents, but seldom offer them any real assistance."

As one who has long watched the situation of the wayward child I am positive that the humanitarian officer has the right idea and I go him one better. Nearly all common parents earnestly desire the success of their children and they only require the honest co-operation of the home-and-school concern, but they do not know the sound rules of training.

Take the matter of spending money alone. The father who is wise enough to train his child from the beginning to do something to earn every penny which comes into the childish possession that parent is laying a foundation for success with practically all the training problems. But the father who carelessly tosses out the unearned penny to satisfy the whim of his teasing child is in for grief. It seems so easy at first to flip a penny or a nickel into the baby hands, but the craving for more grows slowly into a monster of selfishness and unreasonableness.

So, the task of helping a parent becomes simply a matter of adjusting a twisted, young individual as nearly as possible to the standards of a perfect human nature.

Child's tongue shows if bilious or sick

GIVE "CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP" —CHILD'S HARMLESS LAXATIVE

Even Cross, Bilious, Sick Children Love its Taste and it Never Fails to Empty Little Systems

Hurry, mother! A teaspoon of "California Fig Syrup" today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If your child is constipated, bilious, feverish, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good liver and bowel action is often all that is necessary. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup." It never cramps or overacts. Full directions for babies and children of all ages are printed on each bottle. Say "California," or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

COLDS

"Pape's Cold Compound" Breaks a Cold in Few Hours

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling! Take "Pape's Cold Compound" every two hours until three doses are taken. The first dose opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages of head; stops nose running; relieves headache, feverishness, sneezing.

The second and third doses usually break up the cold and end all grippe misery.

"Pape's Cold Compound" is the quickest, surest relief known and costs only a few cents at drug stores. Tastes nice. Contains no quinine. Insist upon Pape's.

Way-Down-South Muffins

One and a half cups yellow corn meal, 1½ cups sifted flour, 4 tablespoonfuls melted fat, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 8 teaspoons baking powder, 1¼ cups half milk and half water. Sift together meal, flour, salt, baking powder and sugar. Use iron gem pans if possible, and put some of the fat in each, reserving 2 tablespoons for batter. Set pans in oven to get very hot, so hot that the batter begins to cook as soon as put into the greased muffin pans. Mix the reserved fat with the milk and water and add to dry ingredients, stirring in the unbeaten egg last. Stir, do not beat, until perfectly smooth, fill pans half full and bake for 15 minutes in hot oven. Do not open door until time is up. Set pans on wet dish towel for a minute before trying to remove muffins. Then they will slip out at the touch of a knife. Serve at once.

When eggs are dear substitute another teaspoon of baking powder.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

When you want clothing you don't go to a dentist. When you want shoes you don't go to a druggist. When you want to consult an expert about your health you don't call in a grocer.

When the nation needs a new banking or finance law, isn't the logical man to consult the Secretary of the Treasury, the head of the nation's finances?

Two finance bills are before Congress, the Capper-McFadden and the Lenroot-Anderson. The latter originally received the endorsement of Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. I don't know that Mr. Wallace ever laid claim to being a financial expert, and Mr. Hoover blasted, by his famous dissertation on, Europe's ability to pay her war debts, whatever reputation he may previously have been accorded as a financier.

* * *

Mr. Mellon, on the other hand, has always had the reputation of being one of the ablest and most successful bankers and financiers in America.

He knows the Capper measure and condemns the other. His reasoning should command the respect of Congress.

* * *

The whole matter gets down to this: Should agriculture, our basic industry, surrender its right to proper treatment under the Federal Reserve System for the doubtful benefits of a bureaucratic organization manned by government employees and subject to endless red tape?

That is the real question involved in the Lenroot-Anderson bill.

The Federal Reserve System was created for the benefit of all sections and classes, business and agriculture alike. It has met the test for commerce and industry. But it has fallen down in the case of agriculture.

* * *

The remedy, however, surely is not to create a new system to compete with the Federal Reserve System, but to make the Federal Reserve System function as successfully for agriculture as it has functioned for business.

The Lenroot-Anderson bill proposes to create farm credits departments in the twelve Federal Land Banks. These departments would really be governmental banks. Centralization, standardization and red tape would characterize everything in their operation and would defeat the very purpose in view.

Moreover, the country has been opposed to centralized government banking for three-quarters of a century, since the abolition of the second bank of the United States.

The Capper-McFadden bill is based upon the theory that existing institutions should be developed to their fullest usefulness. It bows at the line of American tradition by relying on private enterprise for capital and management and looking to the government only for authorization and supervision. It comes out of the successful experience of the War Finance Corporation in agricultural financing during the past year and a half.

* * *

Congress would do well to take financial advice from the administration's financial minister. He knows what he is talking about.

Coppers Set New Highs in Strong New York Market; Money, 5 Per Cent.

WOOLEN AT TOP QUOTATION SINCE '19

China, Inspiration, Kennecott and Utah coppers all set new year's highs on the New York Stock Exchange today. Money renewed at 5 per cent. American Woolen at 104¾, up 1¾, was at a high since 1919. American Can lifted 1¾ to 102¾, a record high.

New high highs were made by Republic Steel, U. S. Realty, Retail Stores and Butte & Superior.

Overnight buying orders, attracted by the brisk rally late yesterday, imparted a strong tone to opening prices. The demand was most effective in the coppers, oils steels and equipments.

Baldwin and Lima Locomotives each opened a point higher, Lima later adding another point and Baldwin nearly a point.

Prices were bid up in vigorous fashion in the first half hour.

Motor accessories joined the upward swing under the leadership of Bosch Magneto and Fisher Body, up 1¾ and 2 points, respectively.

California issues led the oil shares, with a gain of 1¾ points. Tobaccos also were heavily bought, gains of to 2¾ points being recorded by American Sumatra, Tobacco Products A and B, and United Retail Stores.

Publication of additional favorable January earnings statements also induced buying of the rails, St. Louis Southwestern preferred, Northern Pacific and Western Pacific preferred rising 1 to 2 points. Foreign exchanges opened steady with demand sterling off ¼, at $4.70½.

Computing-Tabulating-Recording declared quarterly $1.50 dividend, payable April 10, stock of record March 20.

Allied Chemical declared quarterly 1¾ per cent, preferred dividend, payable April 2, stock of record March 15.

The Computing Machine Company declared, quarterly $1.25 preferred dividend payable April 1, stock of record March 12.

Boston Notes

BOSTON ELEVATED and Eastern Massachusetts will both be benefited by arrangements soon to be announced for covering Hyde Park district with up-to-the-minute car service.

AMERICAN Zinc is being picked by many for a sure rise, on grounds of souring zinc market and fact that stock has not shared in forward movement for long time.

GREENFIELD Tap & Die has no funded debt. Ahead of common is small issue of 8 per cent. preferred, but $41,000, and $5,300 of 8 per cent. preferred. Dividends on preferred stocks have been paid regularly.

AMERICAN Hide & Leather in last quarter of 1922 showed surplus after depreciation and all other charges of $294,876. It is anticipated current quarter will be fully as good.

SHARES OF Calumet & Hecla Mining Company and subsidiaries during past fortnight have been more active than at any time in last few years.

CENTRAL Leather, with bigger sales and better prices, and making much more money on lumber, glue, etc., Central Leather should score in 1923 a further substantial recovery.

WICKWIRE SPENCER interests state that, as their loans have been considerably further reduced, no consideration will be given to resumption of dividends on the $7,681,600 8 per cent. preferred stock, which is now 18 per cent. in arrears.

UNITED Fruit's pineapple and balsa wood cultivations are in good condition and should prove adaptable for considerable areas of land owned and not suitable for bananas.

INTERNATIONAL Paper this year should earn preferred dividends and show something for common.

IT IS EXPECTED Nevada will produce 6,000,000 pounds in April and at this rate with a probable cost of 10½ cents a pound on a 16 cent copper market Nevada will have a yearly earning of over $5,000,000 of which Utah's half share would be $1,500,000.

CHINO's additional recoveries and economies effected by use of cyanogen iron as precipitant result in difference of not less than $150,000 to net monthly income on present mill run.

HORNBLOWER & WEEKS—A very strong market today and tomorrow seems in prospect, with signs of profit-taking before Thursday's close creeping in.

'FOLLIES' ARE POPULAR AT WALDRON'S

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

TOMMY "Bozo" Snyder, whose pantomimic comedy in "Follies of the Day," has set a new high mark in burlesque entertainment, may no longer be regarded as simply a passing fancy to those who enjoy his particular brand of fun making. His return to Boston at Waldron's Casino yesterday almost convinced me that the young man is getting to be a habit—and there are those who will arise in their seats and tell you he's a dorned lively habit.

SETS NEW FASHION.

Anyway you look at it, "Bozo" has accomplished more for the burlesque form of entertainment than any single performer now doing his daily stunt at popular prices. He has set a new fashion in low comedy. Frankly, it is very low comedy, but you cannot get away from it's impressive features. If there is any genuine art in buffoonery "Bozo" Snyder has mastered the art. He has done more—he has throttled it and choked it into submission for his own good purposes.

The "Follies of the Day" is not a new show. Its present week at the Casino is the second appearance in town this season, and its phenomenal run of several weeks last Summer is still a topic of gossip on the corners where show folk gather. While this unusual attraction has upset all outstanding records in burlesque and although "Bozo" with his quaint comedy, has won for himself a clientele familiar with the higher priced forms of theatrical amusement, the one plainly justifiable reason for so much popularity is the finely sustained quality of the performance.

CLEVER SINGERS.

"Bozo" Snyder's unique contribution to the entertainment gives it an abundance of good humor, but Barney Gerard, the producer of the piece, has also served faithfully by surrounding his comedian with features of more than ordinary merit. Outside the rare comedy projected by "Bozo," the "Follies of the Day" measures up to the best standards of musical revues.

With Julia De Cameron reaching for high notes the vocal end of the entertainment appears to be in safe hands, and for more moderate comedy Sam and Babe Almond are considerably in evidence. A detail of girls, typical of the modern musical revue, fill your eye to overflowing.

FULL COURT TO HEAR WORKMEN'S CASE

Judge Pierce of the Supreme Court has reserved for the full court at its March sitting the bill in equity brought by William L. Dealnay and other members of the United Order of Workmen of Massachusetts, asking for the appointment of a receiver to take charge of the affairs of the association. The question as to whether a proceeding of this nature may be maintained only by the Attorney General, at the request of the Bank Commissioner.

STORROW DENIES BUYING ENGLISH COAL

Denial that he had bought heavily of English coal to profit in the present American shortage was made by James J. Storrow in a letter sent President Frank G. Allen of the State Senate. "I did not purchase any English coal as charged," said Mr. Storrow, "nor have I been interested in the most remote way in connection with the purchase or ownership of British coal."

REPUBLICANS PRESS FARM CREDIT BILL

Washington, Feb. 28.—Republican House leaders were determined if possible to press the Farm Credits Legislation to a vote before adjournment today. The measure was sidetracked yesterday for a conference report on the National Banks Tax Bill which led to a five hours' fight and further tightened the Legislative jam in the House.

It rested largely with the leaders as to what Legislation now would be selected for action by the House after the Farm Credits Bill.

The end of the Administration Shipping Bill, conceded to have been as good as dead since last Friday, was expected today by a Senate agreement to dispose of it.

Chairman Lodge of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee expected to confer with President Harding today in connection with the committee's decision to seek further information from the administration relative to the President's authority to enter the international court set up by the League of Nations, although it was virtually decided that the matter could not be brought before the Senate in the short time remaining before adjournment.

Trying to Sneak Us Into the League of Nations

Harding Administration Succumbs to International Banking Influence. But People Have Yet to Be Reckoned With.

Copyright, 1923, by Star Company

To the amazement of the country, the President on Saturday, six days before the Congress expires, suddenly requested the Senate to sanction our joining the League of Nations World Court and taking a seat in the Council and Assembly of the League for the purpose of choosing the Judges of the Court.

In general, the country recognizes this move for what it is. American advocates of the League of Nations gleefully announce that they have discovered the President trying to crawl into the League's tent—after the people, by a seven million plurality at the polls in 1920, forbade him to enter at the main gate.

The New York World describes "President and Secretary as feebly kicking and struggling in the grip of the inevitable and making a virtue of necessity in that they are only yielding, as Senator Hitchcock puts it, on the installment plan."

The New York Times, after gently chiding Secretary Hughes for pretending that the United States, while participating in the work of the League, is not really joining the League, thus consoles its reading public: "Inconsistencies and shortcomings ought not to be dwelt upon at this juncture. The administration is bowing to the inevitable. It is taking the first great step that counts. For that it ought to be praised and aided WHILE WAITING FOR OTHER STEPS TO FOLLOW."

James M. Cox of Ohio, the defeated Democratic candidate for President in 1920, who ran upon a League of Nations platform, wires triumphantly from Miami that President Harding's action "Is another triumph for public opinion in American affairs and a demonstration of the power of our religious thought, when aroused and organized."

"It is the first step that counts."

The diplomats of Europe know full well that, once they get the United States into the tent, it will not be long before they have us leading the procession and again footing the bills. Within a year from the day when we officially join the court, the international bankers will demand that our armed forces enforce its decrees in the four quarters of the globe.

Examine the source of this proposal. It came from Secretary of State Hughes. It is Hughes who constructed and fastened upon this country the Four Power Treaty, which binds us to be a partner of every militaristic adventure launched by Japan, Great Britain or France among the islands of the Pacific.

It is Hughes who framed the iniquitous naval disarmament treaty, whereby we destroyed the naval supremacy that would have given us protection for all time, and renounced the construction of those vital naval bases at Guam and Cavite, which alone would have given us the power to protect our Eastern interests.

Finally, it is the same Hughes who was a member of the committee of thirty-one Republicans in 1920—the committee which publicly announced that the way to get the United States into the League of Nations was to elect Mr. Harding.

The people elected Harding for no such purpose. They registered their inalterable will not to be parties to a "peace league" designed to be the guarantor of the wicked spoils of an imperialistic war.

Secretary Hughes is a master of the English language, an adept in the spinning of those fine legal distinctions, in whose mind wanders confused and lost until it at last accepts the lawyer's suggestion as the only way out.

The Secretary of State, versed in the strategy of diplomacy, has well calculated that the last chance to trick America into the League is to use this present pliant Old Guard Republican Senate—on March 4, control of the Senate will be in other hands.

But not all the Secretary of State's skillful casuistry, not all his diplomatic finesse, will succeed in this conspiracy to thwart the recorded will of the people and faithlessly reverse the entire foreign policy which President Harding, Secretary Hughes and the entire Republican administration were solemnly pledged to conserve.

Patience and Co-operation

Major Berry of Pressmen's Union Urged Good Will Between Employer and Employed in Able Speech

Major George L. Berry, international president of the Printing Pressmen's Union, addressed the printing trades the other day on the attitude of organized labor toward the employing class.

He dwelt especially upon the folly of regarding each other as enemies. He argued with his own fellow workers in favor of the proposition that both were part of the production machinery of the community and that unnecessary conflict between them was nothing but sabotage, which tended to reduce the output and thus reduce the quotient coming to each as a result of their labors.

Major Berry developed this proposition very well and impressed those who listened to him, not only with his ability, but with the soundness of his thesis.

He spoke to a responsive audience, for the men in the printers' trades and in the Pressmen's Union and the employers have treated with each other for a great many years and with a very few exceptions not only with tolerance, but with friendship and good will.

It must be a matter of interest and satisfaction to the public to hear the chief of one of our great labor organizations publicly in an address to his followers urge patience, good will and co-operation with the employing class. Major Berry's attitude is that of a statesman in our industry.

Gives Warmth and Food

The Reverend Philip J. O'Donnell presides over the St. James Church on Harrison avenue. He is a vicar of Christ in act as well as in words, in example as well as doctrine, and he is making his church what those who have really studied the actual life of Christ know that He would want his church to be.

In this severe coal crisis Father O'Donnell has opened up his church to people of all creeds to come and get warm. He has done more than that. He has invited the poor of his neighborhood to come and get food at his home.

He has done more even than that. While clerical doctrinaires are quarreling over dogma, Father O'Donnell, something in the spirit of the Man, who, with a whip, drove the money changers out of the Temple, challenges President Harding's "psychological" coal statement, saying "If President Harding had to sleep on some of the cold floors and in some of the apartments of my parish, he would look on matters quite differently, and not think that the coal situation here was satisfactory."

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

ON CONVINCING PEOPLE

By Bruno Lessing

SOME time ago, while reading Evelyn's Diary, I came across an amusing passage which I laid aside for today. This book, by the way, gives intimate glimpses of some sort of the most dramatic moments in the history of Europe three centuries ago.

On January 7th, 1646, Mr. Evelyn was present at a peculiar ceremony in Rome which took place every year, in those times. It was a sermon preached to a compulsory congregation of Jews for the purpose of converting them to the Christian faith.

"They are constrained," writes Evelyn, "to sit till the hour is done, but it is with so much malice in their countenances, spitting, humming, coughing and motion, that it is almost impossible they should hear a word from the preacher. A conversion is very rare."

You can hardly help laughing, these days, to read of such a think. The idea of trying to convert people by force strikes most of us as extremely ludicrous. Yet it is not so long ago since that idea prevailed throughout the world. But somehow or other it never worked. No human being ever received a new idea in that fashion. Even if it happened to be a sound idea, its advancement was invariably retarded by such intolerant procedure.

If you ever allow yourself to become accustomed to the idea that any human being or set of human beings have a right to force unwelcome beliefs upon others, you may be sure that, sooner or later, someone will come along who will try it on you.

Hawaii Pupils Held Retarded

HONOLULU, Feb. 28.—Approximately 20 per cent. of the children in Hawaii's public schools are mentally retarded and are wasting their time, according to an estimate made by Dr. Stanley Porteus of the University of Hawaii, following a recent part survey of the islands. Dr. Porteus recommends a general survey on each of the islands and the grouping of children into classes so that a simplified course of study may be provided for the mentally retarded.

THE VOICE OF NEW ENGLAND

No Attention Paid to Anonymous Communications

President on Coal

Editor Boston American:

As I read the President's views, through the advice of Chairman Meyer of the Interstate Commerce Commission, regarding the coal situation in New England, I became so thoroughly disgusted that I refused to read any further news. To think of the audacity of that bunch at Washington in their determination to discount the stories of coal shortage and suffering that we know has been and is being experienced here throughout this entire Winter, causes one's blood to boil! And how utterly ridiculous for Meyer to tell the President that any suffering from coal shortage anywhere in New England can be immediately relieved. Yes, how, with crushed stone? I've had some of it. And, besides, what does he call immediately? What! Have they established a radio coal delivery system? I wonder if "The Powers That Be" really think that they can get away with such dope?

Magazines and Shoes

Editor Helping Hand:

I take a fancy work magazine, and each month after I am through with it if I. B. would care for it I would gladly send them. Also I have a pair of lady's high cloth top shoes, black, size 4, in fine condition, that I would like to have some needy person have.

A. L. C.

ED. NOTE—I. B.'s address will be sent you.

High Boots

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a pair of shoes size 5 (woman's) in very good condition that I will send to anyone in need. They are high cut and will fit a woman of slender proportions.

Hats and Collars

Editor Helping Hand:

For disposal I have about three and a half dozen men's collars, two men's felt hats, one large and one small, and a derby hat. The last of March I will have an old-fashioned wood-bodied baby-carriage, with a few repairs needed on the hood and new tires on the wheels.

MRS. E. H. N.

ED. NOTE—Good, but wish you had given the size of the collars.

Many Bills to Pay

Editor Helping Hand:

I would be very much obliged if some of your kind readers would help me out in the clothing line. My husband was in the Chelsea Naval Hospital almost eight months last Winter, and he had just got back to work when he broke his collar bone, and in the mean time bills have accumulated. Anything in women's size 38 or 40. I also have an eighteen-months-old baby who is in need of clothes, and I expect another baby in June. It takes all my husband earns now to pay the bills, and nothing is left for clothes.

Painter Needs Work

Editor Helping Hand:

I wish you could help me to get some work, as I have not been able to find anything for about five months. I have a family of four, and my wife is expecting another child in about a week, and I don't know where to turn. I do not ask for charity, but I do ask for work. I am a painter by trade.

Hoarding Sugar

Editor Boston American:

Why not go further than to advise against hoarding sugar? Why not advocate giving speculators a kick which will not be forgotten soon? If the consumers will cut the use of sugar by one half, or eliminate it entirely for a week or two, the speculators would be licked or feel sick at heart. We are too submissive in these matters.

Substitutes for Coal

Editor Boston American:

President Harding was right when he said that our coal troubles were largely psychological, and those who suffered from the coal shortage suffered simply because they refused to use substitutes, when there were an abundance of substitutes at hand, any coal dealer was only too willing to supply such substitutes as rock, slate, or dust, and if anyone suffered for want of those things surely it was their own fault.

Soft Corset Hits Whalebone

PARIS, Feb. 28.—A slush fund of several million francs has been put up in Paris by whalebone dealers, part of which is to be used in America for propaganda in favor of the old stiff corset, according to newspaper report.

Although many French women still wear corsets, they are made of silk ribbon of the flimsiest description and serve merely to accentuate the figure line. Not a bit of whalebone is used.

As a result the whalebone industry, formerly one of the largest of trades connected with the sea, and one in which many fortunes were made, is languishing and likely to die. Hence the slush fund.

The whalebone dealers hope that if they can persuade the American women to return to the old "gauntlet" corset other countries will soon follow suit.

THE MAN WHO FORGOT TO TAKE LATCHKEY WITH HIM

By Herbert Kaufman

TONY BOVO is sitting on the front stoop of America. The door is locked and he hasn't the key.

After living here thirty-two years, he visits Italy and runs foul of the immigration laws on his return.

Tony is a boilermaker and a good steel man, but illiterate. He owns a home in Youngstown, O., and has three native-born sons, yet he is not a citizen.

He left Naples to better his opportunity, then neglected to safeguard his right to stay here.

Never before has he so realized that this is the greatest country on earth, but unfortunately he didn't express his admiration in naturalization papers.

Several million other aliens, who are similarly convinced that Old Glory is striped with plenty and starred with hope, should profit from Bovo's dilemma and spend a few hours at night school if they expect to continue in the land of sound money and high wages.

The time is not far distant when foreigners will not be allowed to stay and play here indefinitely without learning our speech and joining our ranks.

An oath of allegiance is little enough to ask in return for all we give.

A New Party Declares for Americanism

Tony and his kind will find little chance outside the melting pot.

Promiscuous immigration and national indulgence to non-citizens are no more.

A new party just launched emphasizes this trend. It aims to unite trade unions, laborites, Socialists and various fraternal orders.

The keynote of the group is "America for Americans." Membership is only open to those who become members of a greater union—the union that Lincoln symbolizes. These United States cannot continue to leave pivotal industries in the hands of outsiders.

Wiping the "Welcome" From Our Doormat

In 1913, 53 per cent. of steel and iron workers were foreign-born. Fifty-one per cent. of packers' labor—62 per cent. of bituminous miners and wool weavers—69 per cent. of cotton mill operators—72 per cent. of clothing shopmen—and 85 per cent. of the sugar refiners' help came from abroad.

Then, 77 per cent. of Austrians, 75 per cent. of Armenians, 96 per cent. of Bulgarians, 93 per cent. of Croatians, 92 per cent. of Greeks, 77 per cent. of Hungarians, 94 per cent. of Rumanians, 69 per cent. of Poles and 72 per cent. of Russians were still subjects of their mother lands.

The republic is still crowded with chronic aliens. For the past fifty years immigrants have displayed less and less sympathy with our institutions, have been more and more confirmed in their solidarity, have been more and more resistant to environment and assimilation.

Do you wonder that Congress, tardily aware of these disturbing facts and figures, is wiping the "welcome" from America's doormat?

There Is Prejudice in America

There is favoritism in these United States and it belongs to competence. There is prejudice—we're against non-producers and we despise quitters.

We have a capitalistic class and the meanest birthed immigrant within our gates is eligible to join it. There are merchant princes and captains of industries in this country, and they and their fathers graduated into influence and affluence from farm and steerage—as you and your children may do with equal judgment and energy.

There's no magic in this air that changes human nature. Mere presence in America does not alter personal estate; it simply warrants the right of self-alteration.

The raggedest and most oppressed wretch, fled here from the injustice and the scorn of the remotest corner of earth, can sit in the seats of the mighty if he shows sufficient worth of character and mind.

But there's just one road to preferment—and one code. The hard, straight road of personal effort—the clean, if harsh, code of arrival by merit.

Isadora Duncan does not assent to the foregoing. She has no sympathy with our institutions. But we are far less inclined to the institutions which she recommends instead.

Russia is ready for her and her cultotte ideas. Let her peddle them there. "Lily-livered, stoop-shouldered and dready-minded America" has heard enough from this eccentric.

The Federal government now begins to take official notice of her vicious insolence. "Welcome" is wiped from the doormat for her, too.

Secretary Jones, after reading the Duncans' reported views on marriage, et al., concludes that the lady is an undesirable and seeks authority to keep her out of the country.

He overemphasizes an unimportant episode. The statute books are filled with laws to take care of her sort.

He Finds Yellow Blood Best

We are much more concerned over the problem of keeping out Asiatics. Steamship companies or their agents, so the Labor Department claims, are engaged in a general conspiracy to bring over fake crews and smuggle them ashore.

Which probably delights the soul of Dr. Lee Alexander Stone, who believes that the yellow peoples surge with the purest blood of earth, and would hold them up to our benighted view as proud exemplars of racial perfection.

The more or less celebrated author of "Sex Searchlights" and "Sane Sex Ethics" uniquely discovers that Asia is singularly free from social diseases.

A statement to be accepted with decided reservations, in view of Surgeon Ireland's recent warning that China is a veritable pesthouse.

Mr. Anderson Discovers a Conspiracy

General opinion is also inclined to take William H. Anderson's discovery of a "gigantic conspiracy" with reservations.

The legislative head of the Anti-Saloon League can't diminish the seriousness of his own position by defaming the Rockefellers or discounting the extent of their assistance. The Rockefellers at least make no secret of their contributions.

As a lawyer, he must realize how much he has invoked the very suspicion against which he protests. He takes an ill-advised stand when he refuses to submit to examination.

The public anxiously awaits an explanation of the now famous $26,000 transaction.

Prohibition won't be helped by the criminal indictment that appears to be the only method of bringing him within the authority of the courts. A cause is finally judged by its agents.
